Secrecy in Maine:

Carroll Girl Told:

'No More Talking!'

SOUTH PARIS, Me., June 27—The most bizarre and baffling murders in Maine history—those of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Littlefield—were cloaked in further mystery today as the state's witnesses were bound to secrecy.

All witnesses declared they were no longer able to talk concerning the crime for which Paul Dwyer, 18-year-old schoolboy, is now serving life in prison and of which Francis M. Carroll, former deputy sheriff of Oxford County, stands accused.

Chief of those whose lips were sealed were the loved ones of the accused—his wife, Mrs. Ruby L. Carroll, 36, and his daughter, Barbara, 17, both of whom earlier spoke out to defend him against the charge of murder.

Smiling Through—Despite strain under which she has been recently, pretty Barbara Carroll, South Paris, Me., smiles calmly. Her father is under grand jury indictment, charged with murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield

Britain, France Warn Japan

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Britain and France have warned Japan to stay off Hainan island, of the South China coast, and will act to support each other in case "complications" arise, the government informed the House of Commons today.

Richard Austen Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, made the announcement.

Hainan, Chinese territory, is separated by the 150-mile-wide gulf of Tonking from French Indo-China and commands the eastern approaches to that colony.

Ex-Kaiser Seeks New Residence

GENEVA, June 27 (INS)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany wishes to take up residence at Ascona, a small village near Locarno, it was reported today.

The German exile is said to be dissatisfied with the climate at Doorn, Holland, where he has spent the 20 years since his abdication.

Only last Saturday, Barbara steadfastly maintained that she knew her father was innocent of the murders of the beloved South Paris doctor and his aged wife.

Mrs. Carroll was equally insistent that her husband was not guilty of the crimes shouldered upon him in the fifth and newest "confession" of the schoolboy, who once was Barbara's sweetheart.

The young girl declared her love for Paul long since had died and that he lied when he said he originally confessed to double murder to shield the father of the girl he loved.

Today Barbara was to have begun her own story in the Boston Evening American, with full permission of her mother.

But while major points of the prosecution continued to be revealed the girl was silenced and placed in the care of a county ma-

Boom Is On Way! Boston Aids Drive

Business and industry put their shoulders to the wheel today to help end the recession. Important factors making for recovery were:

1—Boston business leaders promised co-operation and said they envisioned a definite upturn.

2—Retail business already has turned the corner, Malcolm P. McNair, professor of marketing at Harvard Business School, told the National Retail Dry Goods Association in Cincinnati.

3—U. S. Department of Commerce reports show a boom is on the way, Secretary of Commerce Roper in Washington announced.

4—New England textile mill-owners said they are looking for a general upswing after Labor Day. New activity in cotton and wool markets. Sales of cotton goods last week totaled 200,000,000 yards, highest in more than a year.

Optimism Here

Boston business leaders today gave unqualified approval to a national campaign for recovery by business and industry.

They called for a united front by business and consumer against "economic reaction."

President J. A. Benton of the Boston Mutual Life Insurance Comany visions a bright future. He said:

"It begins to look now as though we have started up out of the present 1937-1938 depression.

"The delay was due in a great part to a psychological factor: fear of what Washington might do and might not do. Unquestionably there is a better feeling at the present time. The stock market last week was encouraging. The new jobless quotas to go into effect next Friday will help and the President's action on loosening bank regulations to bring about the flow of $3,000,000 into industry and thus make possible investment in securities.

"It will quicken the recovery movement and have an immediate and beneficial effect on small business corporations.

"What we need is mutual help. Capital, labor, all of us should put shoulders to the wheel in united effort so recovery will be with us in a short order.

"WHAT WE NEED IS TEAM PLAY, and I stake my reputation on it as a 'sure thing' to kill the depression."

P. A. O'Connell, president of E. T. Slattery Co., said the outlook for business was optimistic and pointed to four forces at work aiding recovery.

"First, the record-breaking $4,-000,000,000 spending and lending program which the administration has begun and which is part of the $12,000,000,000 project ordered by Congress for the fiscal year. These funds have already been pouring into circulation in a way which cannot fail to stimulate consumer buying.

"Secondly, the new regulations liberalizing commercial bank credit which makes it possible for banks immediately to provide funds to business firms hitherto more or less cut off by precious restrictions. The new ruling greatly improves the position of the security market.

"Thirdly, stocks of goods in the hands of distributors at present range from 10 to 33 per cent lower than a year ago. These inventories, both retail and wholesale, must be replenished immediately, and should bring a sharp increase in factory orders this summer and fall.

"Fourth, consumer buying power means more factory production and more employment. The consumer dollar today will buy six to ten per cent more units of goods than it would buy a year ago."

N. E. Mills Sales Up

New England's textile mills began showing signs of renewed life and hope today following the past week's broad buying movement.

Sales of cotton goods totaled 200,000,000 yards, highest since March, 1937. Raw wool markets in Boston are showing new activity. Operations are picking up in many textile centers for the first time in months.

A general trade expansion, textile leaders said, is looked for after Labor Day.

Cotton goods sales last week were divided as follows: Print cloths, 80,000,000 yards; sheetings, 40,000,000 yards; asnaburgs, 15,-000,000; three and four-leaf twills, 5,000,000 yards; poplins, 3,000,000 yards; lawns and broadcloths, 18,-000,000 yards; assorted combed goods, 10,000,000 yards.

'Upturn Here,' McNair

CINCINNATI, June 27—An upturn in business is at hand, Malcolm P. McNair, professor of marketing at Harvard Business School, told the midyear convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association here today.

Professor McNair cited as evidences of recovery the current rise

Mutual Help Is Needed

"In simple frankness and in simple honesty, I need all the help I can get," said President Roosevelt in his latest fireside chat.

As a whole, his speech left many new avenues open for co-operative action on the part of people of divergent views—which is a hopeful and helpful thing.

Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, in addition to confessing his need for all the help he can get, freely admits mistakes have been made by other than his opponents.

"Last year mistakes were made," he said, "by the leaders of private enterprise, by the leaders of labor, and by the leaders of government—ALL THREE."

There is evidence of deep and profound understanding of the facts that face the country in his declaration that:

"Some labor leaders, goaded by decades of oppression of labor, made the mistake of going too far. They were not wise in using methods which frightened many well-wishing people. They asked employers, not only to bargain with them, but to put up with jurisdictional disputes at the same time."

The part of the speech that stands out above all other parts is his appeal for co-operation, and his apparent confidence that he is going to get it.

As he says:

"We hope that, in the future, private enterprise—capital and labor alike—will operate more intelligently together, and in greater co-operation with their own government than they have in the past."

Of course the President and the government need and should have the utmost help and co-operation from the people.

And the government should in its turn give the utmost co-operation to the people.

Mr. Roosevelt should realize, too, that not only does he need all the help he can get, but industry needs all the help it can get, and the whole country needs all the help it can get, in order to recover.

The government is not merely Mr. Roosevelt's government—it is the whole people's government.

It is the government of labor and of industry.

It is the government of the farmer and of the manufacturer.

It is the government of the miner and the merchant, of the butcher and the baker and the banker—of all employers and employes—of all good citizens.

The government is created to serve the public, not merely the politician.

If the government gives co-operation, it will get co-operation.

If it does not co-operate for production and prosperity, for the creation of wealth and the distribution of wealth, it must give way for a government which will do so.

Co-operation!
Co-operation for progress!
Co-operation for production!
Co-operation for prosperity!
Co-operation for the creation of work!
Co-operation for the creation of wealth!
These should be the watchwords of the hour!

Let us all give our government COMPLETE co-operation, and let us demand the co-operation IN RETURN which is its duty and our due.

Steel Hopes To Keep Wages Up

(Copyright, 1938)

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—High administration officials have been informed the United States Steel Corporation will maintain present wage scales for the time being, it was learned today.

These officials have been given to understand "Big Steel" will seek to reduce wages only in the event that the lower prices announced last Friday fail to produce the heavier sales volume counted on to maintain earnings.

This supports President Roosevelt's statement in his Friday night fireside chat that "I am gratified to know, that this reduction in prices involved no wage cut."

DELAY RAIL SLASH

New Deal chieftains hope that other steel corporations, which also announced price cut, will follow the same course on wages.

It is for this reason, informed sources explained, that the Administration is in sympathy with the tactics of railroad labor heads in delaying a final showdown on the proposed 15 per cent wage slash until fall.

By then, New Deal experts hope, the railroad income will respond to increased traffic induced by the recovery program and a bountiful crop year, obviating the reason for the wage cut.

Encouraged by the revived stock market and pledges of co-operation from industrial chieftains, government officials meantime advanced the recovery drive on four additional fronts:

1—President Roosevelt ordered new bank regulations put in effect July 1, designed to "unfreeze" millions in stored up credit for private enterprise.

MONOPOLY PROBE

2—The 12-member congressional-executive committee investigating monopolistic trends in business and finance will meet tomorrow to launch its inquiry.

3—The Public Works Administration, chief "pump priming" agency, dispatched 1800 contracts to every section of the country, representing approved projects costing almost $500,000,000. The PWA announced it will begin allotting projects next week from new applications.

4—The WPA announced pay increases for all unskilled workers on WPA projects in 13 Southern states.

Big, Bad Baer!

Gay Maxie in Hub

Decorously clad in a black-and-white checked sports coat, a red and green scarf in place of a tie, a blue polo shirt, light grey flannel pants and white shoes, Max Adelbert Baer arrived in Boston today, replete with Ancil Hoffman, his manager and major domo.

LIKE RAINBOW IN HUB—Throwing a left (Beryll Harris) and a right (Helen McInnis), Max Baer today showed Boston how he will take the crown from Champion Joe Louis' brow when they meet in September for the heavyweight title. Girls wanted autographs of the Big Bad Baer, who came clad in gayest garb.

"I lost my overcoat," said Maxie, as his official greeting to Boston. Then, quick like a rabbit, he shifted to another thought.

"I'll beat Louis," he said, "positively! On account I have turned over a new leaf. I am serious." He sighed. "No more cigars, no more liquor, positively—except maybe a little dry sherry, for medicinal purposes."

HERE FOR WEEK

Max is here for a week to referee wrestling matches through this section of the country. Then he leaves for Lake Tahoe, where he will start chopping wood in anticipation of his fight with Louis in the fall.

"I have my little papoose to spur me onward now," Mr. Baer said, referring to his little son, who will be "seven months old come the fourth of next month and weighs 24 pounds."

"You want to see a picture of him?" he asked, and quick as a wink brought forth a sheaf of home-made photographs.

"My wife and the baby are waiting for me at the camp in California," Max continued, referring to the former Mary Ellen Sullivan, a Washington coffee shop manageress, who wed Maxie two weeks after he lost the world's heavy title back in 1935.

CLOWNING IS OUT

"This is a serious business for me now," he went on. "There's no clowning this time. Positively." He inspected his fingernails.

"Just a moment," he said politely, interrupting the discussion to answer a bang at the door.

Two young women were waiting there and Max brought into play as clever a bit of back footwork as the prize ring ever saw.

"Not any more," he said coyly.

"I have turned over a new —"

"We know, we know," they said. "We want your autograph."

"Oh," he said.

"I work in the manicurist's," said one young lady. "Maybe you will have your fingers done?" Max nodded.

"Maybe," he agreed graciously.

"I work in the beauty shop," the other young woman offered.

"Maybe I should come down and get a finger wave," said Maxie, laughing heartily, and accidentally knocking over a photographer.

Babs' Divorce Papers Ready

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, June 27—Countess Barbara von Haugwitz-Reventlow, $40,000,000 five-and-ten heiress, today was well on the way toward her second divorce.

And the likelihood is that Count von Haugwitz-Reventlow, her Danish husband, will get neither a monetary settlement nor custody of their son, Lance, the two-year-old boy who seems to be the center of their differences.

The exact status of the complicated legal maneuvering now going on between the count and countess was revealed today on authority of Henning Repsdorph, the Danish expert on international law, who is continuing his study of Barbara's case.

She plans to make formal application for judicial separation from the count in the Copenhagen courts, probably within the next ten days, according to Repsdorph.

Providing there is no reconciliation, which at present is considered doubtful, she will seek a divorce after the expiration of the legal separation period of 18 months, said the attorney.

The count has profitable estates in Denmark and, according to reports at the time, Barbara settled $1,000,000 on him when they were married.

Attorney Repsdorhp branded the story that the countess would flee England as "completely false and absurd." He said the case is taking the normal course in the normal way.

Barbara, he said, is apparently bearing up very well, and showing no sign of a breakdown.

Gettysburg All A-Shine For Yanks and Rebs Again

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 27 (AP)—This little country town upon which the eyes of the nation were focused 75 years ago, hummed with activity today as the commander of the Grand Army of the Republic surveyed last minute preparations for the final reunion of the blue and the gray.

Dr. Overton H. Mennett, 89, of Los Angeles, who as a boy of 14 from Illinois bore arms for his rail-splitter President, inspected the tent city that will house some 2000 of his comrades.

The celebration will reach its climax July 3 when President Roosevelt will dedicate the new $60,000 eternal peace memorial.

General John M. Claypool, 92, of St. Louis, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, is expected Thursday.

In the center of the Confederate camp, by special permission, will be Mrs. Helen Dortch Longstreet of Lorton, Va., widow of the late General James Longstreet, southern officer whose corps won immortal fame at Gettysburg.

EDNA DUNHAM

Plant Names Prince Rival

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., June 27 (AP)—Phil Plant filed a cross complaint to the divorce action of Edna Dunham Plant in superior court today, in which he charged her with misconduct with Prince Levan Dadiani.

At the same time, the former Broadway playboy, who retired several years ago to a Waterford farm to raise poultry, formally denied charges of his wife which termed him an "international drunk" and accused him of extra-marital affairs, principally with Marjorie King, showgirl.

PHIL PLANT

Plant, heir to a $20,000,000 fortune, asserted that Prince Dadiani, polo-playing nobleman and once member of a ruling house of the Russian Province of Georgia, had paid attentive court to Mrs. Plant since last March. He submitted dates, times and places as given him by private detectives he employed to watch his wife.

Plant and Miss Dunham were married April 11, 1934. Plant's first wife was Constance Bennett, the film star.

1-Girl's Sit Strike Would Force Bridal

IRVINGTON, N. Y., June 27 (INS)—"Here I am and here I stay until the man says 'yes,'" firmly announced red-headed Mrs. Hedi Huesser, 28, divorcee, today as she began the second week of her "stay in" strike in the mansion of Rollo K. Blanchard, millionaire sportsman who won't marry the girl.

"Strike headquarters" for Mrs. Huesser, former wife of a Swiss government official and mother of two small children, is the guest chamber at Blanchard's home. She captured it on a surprise marathon through the house and upstairs last week and there she stays, refusing to eat or to leave.

Blanchard, estranged from his wife for three years, met Mrs. Huesser through his daughter Betty, a student at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville. They became good friends—Mrs. Huesser claims they are engaged.

Since the "stay-in" strike began, Blanchard has vacated his home and is staying aboard his yacht at Tarrytown Yacht Club. His two children, Kimball, 15, and Betty, 17, have also moved out.

Several times, police have attempted to persuade Mrs. Huesser to leave but she refuses.

"I'll starve before I leave," she says. "I love him so—why is he so cruel to me?"

Today they were shutting off the water and electricity at the house to see if that would dislodge the love campaigner.

The home was protected by private detectives. Irvington police said they would not take action unless a court so ordered.

Hunt Mystery Car in Crash Death of 5

Rhode Island police today conducted a widespread search for a mystery car believed to have been partly responsible for the fatal auto crash at Middletown, R. I., which cost the lives of five persons and seriously injured six others.

In other New England holiday accidents, James Weldon Johnson, 67, famous Negro author, poet and educator, was killed at a Wiscasset, Me., grade crossing and a Wakefield boy was crushed to death under the car his father was backing into a driveway.

In the Middletown crash three in one family were killed and two critically injured. The dead are:

BERNARD PREZIUSO, 52, his wife, Helen, 50, and their son, Mario, 20, all of Providence.

ANTHONY LANNI and ANTHONY ADAMONIS, of Providence.

The injured:

ELEANOR PREZIUSO, 16, of Providence, fractures and bruises.

ERNEST PREZIUSO, of Providence, cuts, internal injuries.

NELLO PAOLI, 50, of Providence, severe cuts.

GUIDO MARTINUZZI, 33, operator of the second car, fractured jaw, cuts.

JOHN RUSSO and MICHAEL CONTI, cuts.

According to police, the car driven by the younger Preziuso was just pulling out of a gas station and starting toward Providence when the machine operated by Martinuzzi rounded a curve and crashed with the Preziuso automobile.

A car, said to have been racing along behind Martinuzzi's machine, sped away as the crash occurred. This is the machine being hunted.

Riding with the Preziusos were Lanni and Adamonis. Russo, Conti, and Paoli were all riding with Martinuzzi.

Norman McWhinnie, Jr., 8, of Converse street, Wakefield, was playing in front of his home when his father backed his car into a neighbor's driveway to make a turn. The boy ran across the car's path and the wheels passed over his body. He was killed instantly.

Johnson and his 40-year-old wife were driving to New York from their Dark Harbor, Me., summer home when their car was struck by a Maine Central railroad train at the Wiscasset grade crossing. Johnson, who sustained a fractured skull, died shortly after the mishap. His wife was taken to Damariscotta Hospital with head and leg injuries.

Johnson served as U. S. consul to Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, in 1906 and later served in the consular service at Corinto, Nicaragua. He was author of several novels and volumes of poetry.

A Curve—A Swerve—And Death

CRASH KILLS FIVE—Two automobiles carrying eleven passengers on Sunday outings in Rhode Island crash in head-on collision at Middletown, R. I., when one car swerves out of line on a curve. Four bodies are shown strewn on roadway. Another victim and six severely injured were trapped in the twisted and bent wreckage of the two machines.

Rain Drenches Queen At Rites for Mother

GLAMIS, Scot., June 27 (AP)—The Countess of Strathmore and Kinghorne, mother of Queen Elizabeth, was buried today in a rhododendron-lined grave on the estate of Glamis Castle, storied home of the Strathmore family.

The bereaved queen walked part of the way from the castle to the burial plot, but the rain became so heavy that she, her father and other members of the family took a motor car for the remainder of the distance.

King George, however, walked the full distance, about ¼ mile, bareheaded.

The bishop of St. Andrews read the graveside service, which was inaudible at times because of the heavy downpour.

All Glamis village was in mourning for the 76-year-old countess, who died in London last Thursday with the king and queen at her bedside.

Queen Mother Mary and other members of the royal family observed a memorial service in London at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, attended by members of the diplomatic corps.

Van Nuys to Get Pettengill Aid

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—Rep. Pettengill of Indiana, anti-New Deal Democrat, today announced in the Congressional Record that he would support the independent race of Senator Van Nuys (D.) of Indiana for re-election to the Senate this year.

Conceding that it is not likely Van Nuys will be renominated on the Democratic ticket in Indiana, Pettengill said he would support him "on whatever ticket he may run." Pettengill, himself, has announced his retirement from Congress.

PWA Sends 1800 Contracts to Cities

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The Public Works Administration said today it had sent about 1800 contracts to municipalities and other public bodies covering allotments under its new program.

When signed, these contracts will constitute formal agreement between applicants and PWA, and clear the way for actual work on projects.

Kelly Flays Hurley, In Campaign Debut

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Lashing out at the public record of Governor Hurley and the power trusts, Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly today formally swung into his campaign for promotion to the governor's chair.

Before a large and enthusiastic audience, sectioned off by delegations from nearly every section of the state, Kelly was accorded a reception by his workers while his wife, his mother and several brothers and sisters sat as guests on the platform of Symphony Hall.

He announced that his fight for promotion was again t the power trusts, organized wealth, certain prejudiced newspapers and the self-appointed bosses, "all of whom had combined to get rid of Kelly—but failed—in the 1936 contest for lieutenant-governor."

"I want to prove," he said, "to the satisfaction of everyone and to the future generations in Massachusetts that you do not need the expenditure or backings of many h_ndreds of thousands of dollars to be elected governor of this state but th . it is possible for a man of moderate circumstances to be elected to this high office."

RECALLS PROMISES

Throughout the speech which acknowledged his reception, the lieutenant-governor showered praise several times upon those who had braved the rain to attend.

Pointing out that he was elected lieutenant-governor in 1936 as "the people's candidate" he made solemn promise that he would serve in 1939 and 1940 as "the people's governor," he added:

"From what I have seen at the State House, you certainly need on Beacon Hill a governor who will protect the rights of the people every month of the 24 months term and not take the easiest way out, which is selling out to the power trusts."

On his charges concerning the power trusts, he said:

"Because of my efforts in behalf of the people at the State House, power trusts, lobbyists and others have adopted a slogan of 'We must drive Kelly out of the State House at all costs.'

"I answer the slogan by saying that, with the aid of the decent and free-thinking people of Massachusetts in September and November, we will give an answer at the ballot boxes by sending to Beacon Hill a man who will make every effort to restore the state government to the people and drive out, once and for all, these notorious power trusts and their servants"

18-POINT PROGRAM

Kelly pointed to a promise that he made in 1936 to be an active lieutenant-governor by reporting to the people from time to time by radio. He said he would continue the custom as governor.

During the address he referred to his already announced 18-point program, repeating his plans for lower interest rates on small loans; security to worthy persons at the age of 60; five day work week, election of public utility commissioners and alleged waste and graft on state contracts.

He promised to discuss all 18 points during the progress of the campaign.

As a closing word to his workers he admonished them to refrain from personalities in the contest against Governor Hurley, adding:

"Discuss only his public record and compare that poor public record to the splendid, unimpeachable public record of your candidate, the present lieutenant-governor who seeks promotion."

He repeated a declaration he made when he announced his candidacy in February that he anticipated only the one term of two years, "in order to make way for some other young Democratic who would aspire to the high office of governor."

In another section of the address he pointed out that many of those in his audience were Democratic workers who had been instrumental in electing Governor Hurley in 1936 but who had since turned against him.

OPENING DRIVE—Pledging a progressive administration if elected governor of Massachusetts this year, Lieut. Gov. Francis E. Kelly tells more than 1500 persons at Symphony Hall of his platform. Speech opened campaign.

Long Session Threatened

Hopes for early prorogation of the Legislature went aglimmering today as persons close to Governor Hurley declared he would keep Senate and House in session "all summer if necessary" to force recalcitrant solons to realign voting districts before the fall elections.

The governor has already sent two messages to the Legislature demanding the reapportionement before November and it was believed his second demand, made a days ago, would be presented today to the joint committee on election laws.

SEEKS PAW CASH

There are two other measures on the legislative calendar which Governor Hurley would also like to see passed before prorogation.

One of these is passage of an enabling act to permit the state to avail itself of $2,000,000 PWA funds already allocated by the federal government for highway construction. Before this money may be actually appropriated for Bay State use the Legislature must meet it with a similar sum out of state coffers.

PLANS MESSAGE

The Governor is also anxious to re-submit his recommendation for a $23,000,000 bond issue for general construction purposes, which was killed last week by his Republican foes.

It was rumored in Beacon Hill corridors today that he was preparing another special message embodying a second demand for passage of that measure and would present it to both Houses within 48 hours.

Dr. Arnold Seeks Councillor Seat

Dr. Seth F. Arnold, Boston city councillor for five terms and a representative for four terms, today announced his candidacy for the executive council.

Dr. Arnold was for 12 years a member of the Republican Boston City Committee.

Hearst News Fairness Hailed

High praise of the Hearst newspapers for fairness in reporting political news was expressed by Attorney Francis Leary of Newburyport with his introduction of Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly at the formal opening of Kelly's campaign for governor.

After a criticism of some publications, Attorney Leary stated:

"I wish to publicly congratulate the Hearst newspapers and their political and news writers which to date have been very fair, namely, the Boston Evening American, the Boston Daily Record and the Boston Sunday Advertiser We may soon be forced to have much more to say about other political writers unless they change their present unfair policies."

Saltonstall Scores 'Isms'

FORT DEVENS, June 27—Forces and "isms" which threatened civilization in the World War imperil liberty today under new guises, Leverett Saltonstall, candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination, warned veterans holding a reunion here.

He urged members of the 301st Field Artillery, celebrating the 20th anniversary of their departure for Europe, to keep up the battle for democracy for which they fought on foreign soil.

"Just as in '18, we have the dual responsibility today of fighting to save our democracy and of fighting to save sound, efficient and helpful government such as is possible only under democracy," he said.

Governor Hurley Hits G O P 'King-Makers'

Republican members of the Legislature smarted today under a charge by Governor Hurley that they were but the "tools" of party "king-makers" in their last-minute refusal to support his highway and building program for relief.

The Governor charged that a group of five big Republicans gave orders on all votes, during an address before the National Association of Postmasters, in convention at Falmouth.

At the same time, the Governor declared he would find a way to get funds to provide work relief.

"No women and children will go without food while I am governor of this state," he shouted.

"You have probably read about the sad state of affairs of cities in Ohio, where mothers and children have gone without food because of lack of relief funds. Well, it won't happen here."

Governor Hurley charged that a month ago the Republicans had supported the diversion of money from the gasoline tax, which with other appropriations, would have brought total relief funds of $23,000,000.

"Isn't it strange that 30 days later they claim we don't need this amount," he questioned. He said that the 'king-makers' on Beacon Hill had spoken and that their 'tools' were only following out instructions."

Chamberlain Refuses To Arm Ships

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's opponents in the House of Commons, enraged by two more attacks on British ships in Spanish ports, sought vainly today to have him arm British merchantmen with anti-aircraft guns.

Chamberlain tried to stem a flood of hostile questions with a declaration that "a good many difficulties" stand in the way of such a move.

Replying to Laborite Philip J. Noel-Baker, Chamberlain first said that "further consideration of the suggestion has revealed additional difficulties."

Asked if the government would suggest to the Spanish nonintervention committee that merchantmen be supplied with machine-guns to defend themselves against low-flying attackers, Chamberlain explained that that had been considered but added:

"I am informed that fitting of merchant vessels with anti-aircraft equipment would require structural alterations."

New Revolt In Austria Stirs Hitler

LONDON, June 27 (INS)—A revolt has broken out among Austrian Nazis and has grown so serious that Chancellor Hitler may have to intervene personally, the Daily Herald, labor newspaper, reported today.

Hitler, infuriated by the rebellion, the Herald related, brusquely summoned Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austria's nominal chancellor, and Dr. Neubachter, Austrian financial advisor, to his summer home at Berchtesgaden.

The pair arrived at the chalet secretly, Saturday, the newspaper stated, and told the Reichsfuehrer the situation in Austria was serious enough as to require his personal attention.

If Hitler intervenes, the Herald said, it was feared he would order a ruthless "purge" designed to stamp out all opposition to the Nazi regime.

For Hitler is reported to be in his angriest mood because the unrest of the Austrian Nazis seems suspiciously like mutiny, the Herald said.

Franco Refuses Peace, Bombs 2 British Ships

By KINGSBURY SMITH

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

LONDON, June 27—Rejecting a compromise peace proposal as well as a suggestion from Premier Mussolini to spare British shipping in Spanish ports, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgents bombed two more British merchantmen at Alicante and Valencia today.

Heavy casualties were reported when the British steamer, Farnham, was bombed and set afire at Alicante. One seaman was killed when the 4903-ton Arlon was attacked at Valencia.

Madrid dispatches said three Britons were killed aboard the Farnham and two Spanish stevedores wounded. The fire was finally extinguished but the vessel, badly holed amidships, was expected to sink.

Over the week-end, Mussolini had suggested to Franco that he cease bombing British ships. At the same time, the Insurgent leader rejected a peace proposal put forward informally by Francisco Largo Caballero, former premier of Spain and ex-leader of the Socialists.

Franco turned down the suggestion on the ground that Mussolini had promised to see him through to complete victory.

Largo Caballero's plan was believed to involve a measure of autonomy for Catalonia and a compromise settlement on other points.

Former Dorchester Man Found Dead

Reginald Kelley, formerly of Millville road, Dorchester, was found dead today at the foot of basement stairway in a downtown Providence, R. I., building.

A brother, Edward, of Dorchester, left for Providence to claim the body.

Jap Fliers Drop Bombs On Hainan

SHANGHAI, June 27 (AP)—With Chinese and Japanese forces apparently deadlocked in the Yangtze river valley below Hankow, Japanese bombing crews today carried out widespread aerial operations over South China.

The Yuling forts on Hainan island, just off the South China coast, were bombed and the attackers reported Chinese shore batteries there were silenced.

More than 500 miles to the northeast of Hainan the Kwangtung province city of Chaochow was bombarded. The Japanese said that in this attack railway buildings on a line from Swatow, to Chaochow's south, were destroyed.

Many military observers expect that the seaport Swatow may become the point of entry for any Japanese attempt to invade South China. Japanese troops were landed last week on Namoa island, 20 miles east of Swatow.

The Japanese reported that the railway linking Kowloon, part of the British colony of Hongkong, with Canton, South China's gateway for military supplies, had been cut by destruction of the Shekling bridge in a bombardment.

The Chinese reported today they made four successful air raids on Japanese positions along the Yangtze river late yesterday, damaging five Japanese gunboats.

Three of the vessels, they reported, were near Anking and two were at nearby Tungliu. They also said they destroyed five Japanese planes grounded at Wuhu and an undetermined number at the Anking airdrome.

Hitler, Duce Seek War Death Thrust

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Copyright, 1938, by International News Service)

PARIS, June 27—While Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is endeavoring with nice words to dissuade Generalissimo Franco from letting his German and Italian bombers sink British ships on sight, Barcelona is threatening the big Italian air bases on the islands of Iviza and Majorca with destruction.

At the same time Mussolini is urging Franco to hurry and make an end of things with a death thrust to the Loyalists, and Adolf Hitler is understood to be most active in trying to convince Japan of the advisability of finishing the Chinese war as speedily as possible.

To this end it has again been informally suggested in Tokyo that Japan show magnanimity and offer Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek such reasonable terms as a basis of peace as to impress not only the Chinese people with proof of the frequently reiterated Japanese desire for friendship, but to convince the world, too.

HITLER AS FRIEND

It is perhaps true that Hitler is not engaged in official mediation, but has made merely informal, friendly suggestions following his withdrawal of Gen. Falkenhausen from the staff of China's military advisers. The unofficial contacts have been made through his official diplomatic channels.

Hitler had a long talk with his ambassador to Japan, Major-Gen. Ott, whom he hurriedly recalled from Tokyo by air to make a personal report.

REDS REPLACE NAZIS

Germany's swerve in her China policy marked by the recall of her military advisors and the stopping of shipments of arms and munitions to China was predicated by Hitler on the belief that there would be an early Japanese victory. The German thesis is now that Japan may emerge economically and financially weak but should be militarily strong.

Germany has no interest in a militarily weak Japan as an ally against Soviet Russia. China's alignment with Red Russia which it is suspected goes much farther than aid with military advisors to replace the Germans, several hundred war planes and pilots whose presence has manifested renewed Chinese activity in the air and other war supplies, is causing concern in Nazi circles.

Since the deal negotiated by China with Moscow the Soviet government, it is understood, declines to send arms and munitions direct to the Chinese Communist 18th route army but only to Chiang Kai-shek as generalissimo of all the Chinese.

AUTOS KILL 10 MORE

Although 10 persons were killed by automobiles last week, the motor death toll in Massachusetts today stood at 121 lives less than for the corresponding six months last year.

To date this year, 317 have been killed in comparison with 438 fatalities a year ago.

Raps Legion For 'Fascism'

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—The American Legion was denounced as "Fascist" and "unpatriotic" today in a 280-page survey of the veterans' organization published by Teachers' College of Columbia University.

The monograph, prepared by Professor William Gellermann of Northwestern University, was released as approximately 12,000 educators gathered for the annual convention of the National Education Association.

Gellermann assailed the role played by the Legion in the educational, economic and political life of the nation and called on school officials to cease "pandering" to it.

Columbia University awarded the Northeastern faculty member a doctor of philosophy degree on the basis of his study and published the monograph as one of its "Contribution to Education" series.

"The American Legion is not an expression of democratic but rather an expression of entrenched business and military interests which attempt to hide their true purposes under democratic guise," the survey said.

Gellerman, a former Legionnaire, said the organization was dominated by a small group of reactionary leaders too powerful to be unseated.

"It is encouraging to observe that the average ex-service man is not now and never has been a member of the American Legion," he continued.

"Its intolerance and persecution of those who advocate change, in the name of those very rights which the American Legion itself substantially destroys, is Fascism in fact, and should be opposed with all the vigor at the disposal of American educators.

"In the promotion of war and Fascism, the American Legion has done more than its share."

"That is the essence of Democracy, and not the operation of any Fascist theory."

100 TOTS BURNED

VERSAILLES, France, June 27 (AP)—More than 100 children were injured today when a stand selling toy ballons caught fire.

Doherty Hits Colleges as Communistic

Too often institutions of higher education are seats of Communism instead of being strongholds of American principles, Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, national commander of the American Legion, declared today.

He referred to what he termed the "vilifying" survey published by Teachers' College of Columbia University in which the Legion was assailed as "Fascist" and "unpatriotic."

"That the legion is unpatriotic is refuted by the fact that it is made up of those whose eligibility is determined by their service to their country in the World War," he said.

"And as for the Fascist part, the Legion formulates its action from resolutions which have their origin in the 11,444 posts and divisions through the country, which are submitted to committees at the national convention and voted upon by each delegate.

City Mourns Peters' Death

Persons in all walks of life today mourned the death of Andrew J. Peters, mayor of Boston from 1918 to 1921, whose political and civic career won him a legion of friends and admirers.

He died in his 67th year at the Faulkner Hospital last night, a victim of pneumonia. For days physicians had administered oxygen to prolong his life. His family was at the bedside when the end came.

ANDREW J. PETERS
Lost Life Battle

In addition to his term as mayor, he served as state senator, state representative, congressman and assistant secretary of the treasury.

LEADER IN POLITICS

His civic and business interests were far-reaching. He was president and chairman of the board of trustees of the hospital in which he died. He was an attorney and financier.

He reached the fullest extent of his ability in an executive capacity. An Episcopalian by denomination he was noted for his tolerence and liberalness of views.

In his maiden speech in Congress he urged that the claims of the Catholic Church in the Philippine Islands be recognized, a battle won through his leadership and aid.

He was a Democrat by creed, but often found strength in Republican strongholds in his political campaigns. Labor legislation found him a ready friend.

HELD MANY OFFICES

He began his political career as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1902. He went to the Massachusetts Senate in 1904 for a two-year term. In 1907 he was elected to Congress from the 11th district, ending his work there in 1915.

Among positions and offices he held were:

Trustee of the Bond Investment Trust Company, the Burroughs Newsboys' Foundation, Northeastern University, the South End House and the Suffolk Savings Bank for Seamen and Others, and vice-president and director of the Eastern Middlesex Street Railway Company.

He also was a member of the general counsel of Ford Hall Forum, member of the Massachusetts Advisory Council of the George Washington Memorial Association, member of the advisory board for Massachusetts of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, incorporator of the Home Savings Bank and director of the Old Colony Trust Company.

He married Martha R. Phillips of Boston on June 23, 1910. Six sons were born to them. Living are Andrew James, Bradford, Robeson and David McClure Peters.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. in Trinity Church. The Rev. Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector, will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Hills Cemetery.

FR. PETER O'BRIEN

WORCESTER, June 27—Rites were being arranged today for Rev. Peter A. O'Brien, S. J., professor of Latin and English at Holy Cross College, who died suddenly at Keyser Island, South Norwalk, Ct.

He attended Boston College High School and entered the Jesuit order as a novitiate of St. Andrew-on-the-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, in 1915. He continued his studies at Weston College and was ordained in 1928.

EDWARD LOUNSBURY

Services for Edward B. Lounsbury, 51, well-known commercial artist in Boston and Cambridge, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the Church of New Jerusalem, Boston. He died at his home, Popular street, Belmont, after a brief illness.

M. S. REARDON

Maurice S. Reardon, 63-year-old park department employe and former Cambridge city councilor, passed away at Cambridge Municipal Hospital today, following a prolonged illness.

Mr. Reardon served Cambridge as a city councilor in 1901-2, later becoming employed in the park department. Until a few months ago, he was supervisor of recreation at the Russell E. Hoyt playground.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 8:30 from the Reardon home, 18 Leonard avenue, Cambridge. There will be a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Church at 9.

New Typo Head Takes Over Duties

Frank E. Connor of the Boston Globe took over his new duties as president of the Boston Typographical Union today after his installation, with other officers, at a Ford hall meeting.

Connor appointed Dugald MacCallum of the Boston Post, Samuel Levine of the Boston Herald and S. J. McBride of the Boston American as the board of trustees. It was voted to set aside each year a portion of the May meeting to pay tribute to departed members and enter a float in the Labor Day parade.

Wollaston Fire Routs 2 Families

Four adults and two children were driven into the rain today when fire broke out in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Mulvey, Sachem street, Wollaston. Mr. and Mrs. Mulvey carried their two children, Mary, 3, and Elaine, 16 months old, to safety. Also roused and forced to flee were Mr. and Mrs. George Stickle.

Damage was estimated at $2500. Firemen said the blaze, which originated in the living room, was caused by a cigarette.

Breen Death Photo to Jury

Police Captain Thom Connolly of the South End station and Police Photographer George Andrews were first witnesses called here the Suffolk county grand jury today, as District Attorney William J. Foley sought indictment of the "myster" slayer of David J. "Beano" Breen.

Cameraman Andrews made photographs of the Metropolitan Hotel lobby, where Breen was shot to death, last December 17.

30 WITNESSES WAIT

Authorities used these pictures later in an effort to establish the direction from which the murder bullets could have been fired.

Captain Connolly had charge of the original investigation.

More than 30 witnesses, including two women, were waiting, ready to be called.

On the witness list, but not able to appear, was Mrs. Madeline Breen, widow of the murder victim.

WIDOW IN COLLAPSE

She was recently prostrated by a nervous breakdown, police revealed today. They said she was under a doctor's care at her home in Melrose street, South End.

Held without bail, charged with the Breen slaying, is James Welansky, Boston sporting figure and former manager of the hotel where the killing occurred.

His arrest last month came as a surprise climax to action by Municipal Court Justice Charles L. Carr, who presided at the murder inquest.

Ford Dons Robe Of U. S. Judge Before Crowd

In the presence of notables of nation, state and city, former United States Attorney Francis J. W. Ford took the oath of office today as a judge of the Federal District court.

The ceremony was an impressive one on the 15th floor of the Federal building, with three black robed judges on the bench.

The oath was administered by Judge Hugh D. McLellan of Federal District court. Also present were Judge James M. Morton of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge George C. Sweeney of the Federal District court.

Judge Ford's commission, signed by his former Harvard classmate, President Roosevelt, was read by Court Crier Daniel Chapman.

So large a crowd was present that late comers were unable to find seats.

First to congratulate Judge Ford after the induction ceremony were his wife, Ann, and his daughter, Barbara.

Waiting inconspicuously to shake the new judge's hand was William F. Spencer, South Boston undertaker. He was first client to retain Ford when the latter began his practice of law.

Officials present included Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston, Postmaster Peter F. Tague, Mayor Tobin, Immigration Commissioner Mary A. Ward, Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, Judge Edward L. Logan of Suffolk Boston court, and Judges Frank W. Tomasello and John Crehan of Boston municipal court.

Wife Visits Roosevelt Son

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 27 (AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, wife of the President's son, and Harry Hopkins, Federal WPA administrator, arrived today by train to visit young Roosevelt, who is undergoing examination at the Mayo Clinic.

Hopkins was jovial but uncommunicative and sidestepped questions about official business.

"I'm here to see Jimmy," he said, "not on business."

Hopkins said he planned to remain one day, then return to Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she expected to remain until the President's son is ready to leave the hospital.

Recluse Escapes Death in Flames

Mrs. Georgietta Whitten, 75, Melrose recluse noted for her fight to obtain government pensions for mothers, today was recovering from burns received while fighting a fire in her Berwick street home.

She refused to go to a hospital and firemen treated her at the scene. The blaze was caused by an overheated iron.

Lucey was pleading with the committee to adopt a rule [illegible] be heard Representative Edward D. Sullivan of Lawrence, demanding appointment of a special committee to investigate the recent operations of the Public Works Department in the last 12 months.

REVIEWS BUDGET FIGHT

"There was a budget fight in both branches of the Legislature a month ago," Rep. Julian charged, "and soon after the defeat of the public works department appropriation 1200 men were fired by Commissioner William C. Callahan.

"These discharges were made on a half hour notice and in Watertown and surrounding cities and towns the men fired had had an average service of 11 years in the department.

"It has been stated that they had been fired for lack of departmental funds, yet three days later 10 of them were replaced by men of little or no experience who lived in Brighton, Roxbury and Dorchester.

CLAIMS "PATRONAGE"

"As a matter of fact there were sufficient funds in the department to keep these 1200 men on their jobs, but they were fired at the time to give patronage to certain people, on a political basis.

"The wholesale discharges were nothing more or less than an effort to put pressure on members of both Houses to vote a certain way on the public works department appropriation in the annual state budget."

Calvin Wiggins, experienced planter, says: "The best of my last crop was taken by Camel buyers. They paid top prices. Most growers smoke Camels—we know they're made of costlier tobaccos."

"For a better cigarette, I always say smoke finer tobaccos," says Lee Mason who grows the finer grades. "I've seen the choicer tobaccos go to the Camel people many times. That's why I smoke Camels."

Warrant Drawn In South Hadley Cement Murder

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

SOUTH HADLEY, June 27 — police here this afternoon were preparing a murder warrant which they said they might serve out and serve in connection with the finding of the cement encased body of a man in the Connecticut River.

The murder victim has been tentatively identified as Charles Morris, 44, familiar racetrack figure missing for a year.

Being questioned at Northampton police barracks is John Paul Bathelt, 25-year-old New York sportsman whose wife is Mrs. Margo Lockwood Bathelt, film actress.

GRAVE IN COTTAGE.

Police definitely have established that the [illegible] found in the river came from the cellar of a summer [illegible] where, apparently, it had remained recently in a shallow grave.

Mrs. [illegible] said that she and her husband [illegible] at the cottage [illegible] Harbor [illegible] Saturday [illegible] last.

"But we decided against taking any of them. We were never in there more than 10 or 15 minutes," she declared.

HUNT LYNN MAN

[illegible] Lynn [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] previously Miss [illegible] reporters [illegible] the hotel.

"When the police came here I insisted he call his lawyer and he did," Mrs. Bathelt, who is confined to her Park avenue apartment with a broken leg, stated. "His lawyer told him not to go but he insisted."

[illegible] meantime it was [illegible] for another man [illegible] New York [illegible] well known [illegible] racetrack man.

[illegible] investigators this [illegible] from his usual [illegible] last Thursday the [illegible] apartment-encased [illegible] found in the river.

[illegible] point of mystery was [illegible] the case of the name [illegible] was learned police are [illegible] up on an automobile [illegible] in Bellows Falls, Vt.

[illegible] Maurice Nelligan, in charge [illegible] investigation here, declined to reveal what this was all about except to say that the car is [illegible] stock and that formerly owned by Morris.

[illegible] are also hunting several [illegible] for questioning in connection with [illegible] efforts to check up on tenants of the murder cottage.

The women sought for questioning, state troopers said, attended parties at the cottage on various occasions. Police admitted [illegible] probability that these guests were unaware while gaily reposing above stairs of the gruesome secret in the basement.

Nevertheless all are to be questioned it was stated.

Identification of the body, [illegible] tentative but [illegible] hoped for results during the day on circulars broadcast to [illegible] throughout New England and New York containing detailed [illegible] of the victim's teeth and [illegible].

A [illegible] to bring the [illegible] of Morris was the only identifiable [illegible] of the victim's clothing [illegible] the police.

In the shallow grave like pit in the basement of the death cottage [illegible] found fragments of bones.

Mrs. Bathelt, who is suffering from a broken leg, declared that neither she nor her husband knows anything about the case.

Cannon Loses Tinkham Suit

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) — The United States Court of Appeals dismissed today the $50,000 suit of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., against Representative George H. Tinkham (R.) Mass.

Cannon had accused Tinkham of libeling him by asserting that he had violated the corrupt practices act during the 1928 presidential campaign. He lost his suit in the United States District Court here and appealed.

Cannon, a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, actively opposed Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee in 1928. Tinkham asserted that the Bishop had received $65,000 from Edwin C. Jameson of New York for use in the campaign but had reported only $17,000 to the clerk of the House.

Boston After Dark

By MR. BOSTON
(JACK CONWAY)

Mr. Boston is batting for George Holland who is on vacation. Tomorrow Ernest Holland will write Boston After Dark. Dr. Curtis Mansfield is next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The swanky Boston Skating Club, which first brought the vivacious Sonja Henie to Boston when she was an Olympic champion, has secretly raised $150,000 for the first payment on a new rink it will build . . . Construction will be started early in August on a location that will be close to the Charles River . . . Inability to get sufficient time at the Arena and also high rental charges, caused the unexpected move . . . This item will be news even to Henry Lapham and Walter Brown, of the Garden-Arena combine.

MR. BOSTON

The new rink will have a skating surface equally as large as that at the Arena . . . There will also be cocktail and lounge rooms which will make the spot a Winter meeting place . . . In time, the Boston Skating Club plans to build an outdoor rink adjoining its new building . . . A huge door will open from the indoor rink to the outdoor rink as they have at ice palaces in Europe and it will be possible for skaters to do their stuff indoors or outdoors . . . It was the Boston Skating Club that developed such dazzling performers as Polly Blodgett, Gretchen Merrill and Joan Tozzer.

Fred Allen to Vacation in Maine

Congressman John W. McCormack is at his office in the Federal Building daily trying to secure patronage for his constituents . . . The 84 employes in the Internal Revenue and Social Security Division who were discharged on orders from Washington have asked Congressman McCormack and Congressman George Holden Tinkham to help them get their jobs back . . . Thomas Hassett, a career man, will continue as Acting Collector of Internal Revenue until his successor is appointed . . . Miss Mary Ward, Commissioner of Immigration, has the support of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, for the post . . .

FRED ALLEN sends me word he will drop in to say hello early in July when on the way to Maine for his Summer vacation . . . Police Commissioner Joe Timilty has selected Scituate as his Summer headquarters, and will be located high on one of the cliffs overlooking the water . . . Suggest Scituate 1212 as his private number . . . Police Chief Mike Stewart, of Scituate, is one of the most able police officials in the state and is sure to have some fireside chats with Joe . . . Postmaster Peter Tague will be a neighbor of Timilty's, while former Governor James M. Curley will take the sea breezes at North Scituate.

Attorney Edmund J. Brandon has given his YES to the effort to become successor to Judge Francis J. W. Ford as U. S. District Attorney . . . Brandon has the backing of James Roosevelt . . . It is seldom that an appointment of a judge has been as popular with the members of the bar as the one that resulted in Francis J. W. Ford being inducted into office as a Federal Judge today . . . Both Attorney Thomas Moriarty and Assistant Attorney General Matt Maloney of Chicopee, who is with Homer Cummings in Washington, are interested considerably in the post of U. S. District Attorney here . . .

NERVES

FREE Millions of people are suffering from "nerves" and don't know what to do about it. Scientists have recently proven that many conditions of nervousness such as nervous neuritis, insomnia, failing loss of appetite, constant worry, constipation and many muscular aches and pains are due to lack of certain vital food substances which when taken by the sufferer, give amazing relief. Neural Aid an inexpensive, DRUGLESS preparation contains these all important food elements. Sufferers who clip this ad and bring it in can obtain a FREE SAMPLE of Neural Aid and full information.

Television Spans English Channel

LONDON, June 28 (INS)—The English Channel was spanned today by the first international television broadcast in history.

In the cellar of a hotel atop a cliff on the south coast of England near Brighton an International News Service correspondent participated in the historic event wherein a television program broadcast from the Eiffel Tower in Paris was successfully seen and heard in England.

With officials of Marconiphone making the first accredited test, this correspondent and another newspaperman distinctly heard and saw artists of the Folies Bergeres and other concert halls dance, sing and act before a camera 200 miles away.

The event marked what engineers called the beginning of international television.

Bringing the television program this distance was considered quite a triumph, since the longest previous reception was accomplished at a distance of 150 miles.

This experiment climaxed eight months of research and experimentation on the part of the Marconiphone engineers, working in co-operation with the London Daily Express.

The utmost secrecy surrounded the whole experiment, which was considered more than successful because only standard equipment was used. This included a regular commercial Marconiphone receiver costing about $400, and an ordinary commercial-type aerial.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, MONDAY, JUNE 27, 1938

"Let Us Have Peace!"

The Editor Says: —Nelson Harding's interesting cartoon suggests a solution for one of this depression's major problems. It is CO-OPERATION and PEACE in industry.

While the recently-authorized Federal commission is studying labor relations in Great Britain and in Sweden, this country should be doing what those countries have done by establishing industrial peace on a firm and enduring basis.

There should be an end to feuds between employes and employers.

Industry and labor should work together to benefit each other and the nation.

With a friendly government impartially co-operating, our organized industry and organized labor will be able to increase the national income by many billions of dollars and virtually abolish unemployment.

AMERICAN EDUCATORS would do well to heed the timely warning issued by the 18th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Northampton.

Train our sons and daughters," said the veterans, "in patriotism and DEVOTION TO THEIR COUNTRY rather than in the subversive doctrines of Communism and Fascism."

Fathers and mothers everywhere will agree with the former soldiers. The teacher who uses his position to abuse and to undermine the government that employs him is NOT an American and has no place in an American school.

Such a teacher is a menace, and a dangerous one. His own acts reveal him to be an ENEMY BY CHOICE, a willing servant and tool of alien forces which seek only the destruction of all that has made the United States the greatest nation in world history.

THE PROPHECY of Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, assistant Secretary of Commerce, interests Boston, nearest American city to Europe.

The Colonel says giant air liners will soon be flying in the stratosphere between the New and Old Worlds in ten hours, and that forty million persons will be using the air regularly for travel.

It is indicative of the ACCEPTED PLACE of aviation in present travel practice that the prediction occasions no surprise or skepticism. Boston's concern is for the prosperity that will be hers if she succeeds in winning her rightful place as the PRINCIPAL AMERICAN TERMINAL for the trans-oceanic routes.

Undoubtedly all that Colonel Johnson forecasts will become reality. There will never be a LIMIT to the progress of aviation, a ceiling for flying or a maximum for speed.

The present achievements in aviation are simply MILESTONES. And the many persons in the United States now using air travel as their favorite means of transportation are only a nucleus for the industry to build upon.

As time goes on their number will grow constantly.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, June 27.

TWO apparently unrelated items in the news, which in reality are as closely joined together as the Siamese twins:

More than 17,000 bills were introduced in the Seventy-Fifth Congress. Of these 1700, approximately, became laws.

That's the first item. The second is that John L. Lewis, thwarted in obtaining some of the legislation he demanded, proposes to destroy the Rules Committee of the House, by the Roosevelt packing system, as once intended to be applied to the Supreme Court.

Now the Rules Committee is the sifting-out committee of the House. It decides, under certain parliamentary situations, which bills shall be held up, and which shall be given the green light.

Without a strong and independent Rules committee, all of those 17,000 bills introduced in the last Congress would have been entitled in equal degree to priority.

The sponsors of each would have fought for preference. The result? A child should be able to see that chaos would result.

• • •

What Mr. Lewis should be able to see is that without a discriminating Rules Committee, acting as the clearing house for the House, carrying out the will of the House, priority might be obtained BY SOME BILL TO WHICH HE WAS OPPOSED.

In that event, no doubt, Mr. Lewis would clamor for a STRONG RULES COMMITTEE TO SAVE HIM.

It all depends on which foot the pinching shoe is placed.

• • •

IF ANYTHING has been demonstrated of our Congress during the past five years it is that the power of the LEADERSHIP of the House of Representatives should be enhanced rather than weakened.

Weak leadership in the House has resulted in transferring the power of the House of Representatives to the President.

This, for the nonce, fits into the ambitions of Mr. Lewis's CIO.

But what will Mr. Lewis think, some day, when he finds that the power, which under the Constitution belongs to the Congress, has been permitted to pass into the control of a President WHO IS NOT SYMPATHETIC TOWARDS HIS CIO?

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"WOMEN will never be successful drivers of automobiles," according to a famous automobile-racer, "because they cannot assimilate the first principle of safe-driving, which is always to expect the unexpected."

That is probably the most egregious statement ever made since Adam offered his famous alibi. By inheritance, by teaching, by experience, the average woman travels from the cradle to the grave constantly expecting the unexpected.

If women are not the most successful drivers of automobiles, it is not because a woman has not a flexible imagination. In fact, her imagination works on a hair-trigger, from long practice trying to understand men.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

New England Armed To Defend Self

Death from the sky!

You've thought about it, read about it. New England is a vital spot for aerial bombardment and TODAY as TOMORROW lethal weapons from the sky will play a major role in our next conflict with a foreign power.

In this department TODAY an attempt is made to show how New England is ready to meet that conflict.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

You and I know war. There are many of us who have lived in war, experienced it so that words are meaningless.

But even if we haven't been to war, WE KNOW WHAT IT MEANS.

Coastal defense in New England is, therefore, something important.

THERE ARE 20 AIRPORTS IN THE NORTHEAST, OF WHICH BARNES FIELD AT WESTFIELD IS THE NEAREST TO BOSTON.

IN THE CASE OF SUDDEN ATTACK FROM THE SKY BY A FOREIGN POWER WE HAVE A DEFENSIVE BACKGROUND OF THE FIRST ORDER.

The coastal defense in this part of the country, according to the United States Army, consists of six New England states, plus New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania as far west as Pittsburgh, Maryland and Delaware.

WITHIN THIS TERRITORY ARE MANUFACTURING PLANTS READY TO SUPPLY MUNITIONS IMMEDIATELY.

These manufacturing plants include several aircraft factories and two additional motor bases which supply almost all the engines used by the army, navy and marine corps.

IN ADDITION TO WESTFIELD WITH ITS UP-TO-THE MINUTE EQUIPMENT THERE ARE MANY AIR BASES IN NEW ENGLAND READY TO SPRING TO ACTION ON THE SHORTEST POSSIBLE NOTICE.

At New Haven, Ct., there are headquarters for the First Wing, planes, officers and a special detachment of men from March Field, Riverside, Cal. THEY ARE HERE TO STRENGTHEN NEW ENGLAND COASTAL FORCES.

The 17th Attack Group at Groton, Ct., is ready to be in the air in 10 minutes.

Rentschler Field, Hartford, Ct., has the 95th Attack Squadron of super-powered planes ready to take off.

A well-groomed bombing squadron is on guard at Brainard Field, Hartford, Ct.

RIGHT NOW 21 BASES IN THE NORTHEASTERN AREA ARE ORGANIZED TO HELP ACCELERATE ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSE WITH 413 MOTOR VEHICLES TO SUPPLEMENT DEFENSIVE TACTICS.

THESE MOTOR VEHICLES ARE READY TO MOVE SUPPLIES AND PROVISIONS TO ANY POINT IN NEW ENGLAND WITHIN SEVERAL HOURS.

Although details and plans are secret, it is known that for some time the army and navy have assumed that a foreign power attempting to land on the Eastern seaboard would probably strike in New England.

THAT IS WHY IN NEW ENGLAND TODAY THE ARMY AND NAVY HAVE 517 AIR CORPS OFFICERS, 2830 SPECIALIZED ENLISTED MEN AND MORE THAN 200 OF THE LATEST TYPE BOMBERS, PURSUIT PLANES, CAMERA AND OBSERVATION SHIPS CONCENTRATED IN THIS AREA.

In New England the United States Army has devised programs for the burden of feeding, maintenance and other routine ground tasks to facilitate PERFECT CO-ORDINATION FOR AIR DEFENSE IN LESS THAN 24 HOURS.

A short time ago, right inspection was made by officers from Washington of the latest type munition — three-inch "archies," 50-caliber machine guns, "robot fire control" apparatus and 800,000,000-candlepower searchlights and mechanical "ears" for detecting enemy aircraft roaring over New England.

MANY EXPERIMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE RECENTLY TO GIVE A VARIETY OF LARGE-SCALE TACTICAL PROBLEMS FOR NEW ENGLAND DEFENSE AGAINST A LARGE ENEMY FLEET ARRIVING WITH PLANES.

At all vital coastal points army planes are constantly testing defense tactics.

DAY IN AND OUT ALONG THE NEW ENGLAND COAST ARMY CORPS PLAY A GIGANTIC GAME OF MAKE-BELIEVE IN DEADLY EARNEST.

At New Haven, at Westfield, at Hartford they proceed on the theory that a foreign attack on New England is PROBABLE and there's no doubt about it HAPPENING SOME TIME IN THE FUTURE.

In New England, army officers are perfecting the latest type of camouflaged plane.

This plane is painted on the top so that it looks like the ground and on the bottom it gives the appearance of the sky and clouds. The plane, a bomber, carries seven men, including two gunners.

Another article of this series will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

Clothes Conscious! by Ann Marsters

AT last it has been discovered why Lucius Beebe left Harvard, and went to Yale.

He took one look at the Max Kreezer models wandering around the Square; shuddered, gritted his teeth, and fled for Yale.

Ann Marsters

Lucius, you know, was the Boston blue-blooded boy who became the famous 'clothes-horse' columnist in New York. And evidently he learned about dressing at Yale.

For it is to Yale, Lucius claims that the fashion reporter turns.

"New Haven," he says "is the happy hunting ground for photographers for 'Men's Wear' and 'Apparel Arts.' Yale has always been clothes conscious and Chapel and York streets are nothing more than illimitable vistas of tailor shops trading exclusively with undergraduates."

The whole course of Lucius' career might have been changed had he stuck to Harvard. And it's more than likely that his reputation as a well dressed man wouldn't have amounted to a row of Harvard haircuts.

IF YOU'D LIKE to compare Joe Louis' blows (which you've either seen or heard about) with the blows thrown in the Dempsey-Tunney fight, Ruth Brown, of Boston, tells us that it's possible to do so.

She says there's a store on the lower end of Tremont street that boasts of a "Nickelodeon" machine through which you may view the seventh round of the Tunney-Dempsey fight. They have other pictures, too—like "My Wild Irish Rose" and "A Butterfly in Manhattan."

NO COMMENT DEPT.: A Miss Sage reports that, on her way home from work the other evening, the subway train was so crowded that even a few men were standing.

THE CHOICE

He'd have given me rolling lands
Houses of marble, and billowing farms
Pearls to trickle between my hands
Smoldering rubies to circle my arms
You—you'd only a lilting song
Only a melody, happy and light
You were sudden and swift and strong
Never a thought for another had I

He'd have given me acres rare
Dresses that glimmered with frosty sheen
Shining ribbons to wrap my hair
Horses to draw me as fine as a queen
You—you'd only to whistle low,
Gaily I followed where ever you led
I took you and I let him go
Somebody ought to examine my head!

FIFTEEN YEARS ago a young man named Jacob Stavisky asked for a job to play the violin in the orchestra at the Westminster Hotel.

Charlie Hector, now in charge of music at WEEI, was then leading the orchestra at the Westminster and let young Jacob join his band.

"But," he said, "you ought to change your name. Why not call yourself Jacques Renard?"

We tell you this because Jacques Renard has returned, triumphantly, to appear with his own famous band at the Westminster Roof.

Revive Confidence! by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—In 1933, the bankers were deepest in the doghouse of popular disapproval. The long and deliberate assault of politicians on business hasn't beaten it down in public opinion as far as the bankers were in 1933, but it has had its effect.

Millions of people sincerely believe that business—especially big business—is at heart opposed to all social reform, cares for nothing but profits and, if not restrained by Mr. Roosevelt, would grind the faces of the poor, starve the unemployed and let the country go to ruin.

Gen. Johnson

There have been unwise words and action by Tory die-hards enough to give all the color that is needed by a political business baiting demagogue to make a case against all business. That case is prejudiced, one-sided and only partly true, but it has been so well and persistently presented that many people believe it. Various recent polls indicate that a majority believes it.

As long as it is a majority, business can expect the political bastinado to continue, for such is—and ought to be—politics in a democracy.

THE BANKING brothers have pretty well bailed themselves out of the bad graces of the people. It is high time for business to do the same and it is an excellent time to try. Business has scraped the bottom of this depression. All the Indian signs say it is on the way up. If business doesn't grab the anchor ropes with a hearty yo-heave-ho, the politicians will say they "planned it that way" and that business is impotent or worse—a clog on prosperity.

On the other hand if business will itself forget politics and get sensibly behind this revival, maybe it can convince the country that, after all, it lives on business, can prosper only with business, and can expect from any government policy that destroys business, only danger and disaster.

WHAT CAN business do? It is not easy for it to act together because by our laws it is forbidden to do so. But the sprawling disconnected thing called business does respond to the acts and utterances of its leading figures.

If business leaders took the very van in advancing popular principles, instead of giving even the appearance of opposing them, there wouldn't be any ground left to continue the political attack.

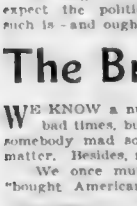
The Brighter Side by Damon Runyon

WE KNOW a number of ways of remedying the bad times, but every one of them would make somebody mad so we have kept quiet about the matter. Besides, no one has asked us.

We once muttered briefly that if everybody "bought American," it would quickly bring the Nation out of the economic doldrums the same as "buy British" did for England, and what do you think happened?



Damon Runyon

Why, a couple of our importer friends immediately cut us dead and practically ruined us socially, so we said no more about "buy American." Anyway, nobody else paid any attention to the suggestion.

Another of our ideas has to do with office-holding in the United States of America. Office-holding costs the taxpayers of the country more money than anything else, including crime, and we have at least twice as many office holders as we need. If we cut down the office holders of the nation by 50 per cent, it would save the taxpayers billions of dollars every year because, with the office-holders would go countless political job holders.

Now we cannot urge that idea. We have a lot of friends in the office-holding racket and we do not care to arouse their ire. They would stop speaking to us, too, and you can readily see the predicament we would then be in. With the importers and the office holders not speaking to us, we would have to go around talking to ourself.

• • •

WE THINK that every state, every city, every county and every township in this country has too many office holders. The Federal Government certainly has at least three times too many. The combined cost of all these office holders, what with their salaries and upkeep of their offices must be a staggering sum, but how can we argue in favor of throwing half of them out, when some of them are our neighbors?

The humane element enters into the matter, too. We know of office holders who have held office most of their lives.

They have established nice homes and educated their children on their office holding salaries, which means at public expense. Some of them have even trained their sons and daughters and nephews and nieces in the business of office holding. Obviously is would be great cruelty to throw office holders of this type out into the world.

On the whole, we just cannot press a suggestion to reduce the office holders. As a matter of fact, we should not mind an office to hold ourself.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

JULY the Fourth! Birthday of this nation! Peal of trumpet and throb of drum . . . cheering millions shouting as one: "I PLEDGE ALLEGIENCE TO MY FLAG AND TO THE COUNTRY FOR WHICH IT STANDS . . . ONE NATION, INDIVISIBLE, WITH LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR ALL."

Just what does that pledge mean to YOU? What are you glad to DO for that your nation may be that you'll be true. BUT TRUE TO WHAT? To what those heroes dreamed in '76 . . . or some new code of action to be [illegible] fight? But which side do you [illegible] right? And how'd you free yourself from this plight that's got her down?

How does this present generation face this Challenge? How does Young America [illegible] Model—interpret its [illegible]? What solution does it offer to meet the need? Here are three Young Americans with their answers.

Elsie Robinson

First, sixteen-year-old MARYBELLE GICQUELAIS of EDGEWOOD, PA., saying:

"America—be proud of what you have and are!

"Be grateful for the Constitution and Declaration of Independence . . . the greatest documents ever conceived by mortal mind!

"In a dictator state there is no liberty. You can't even speak your own opinion; you are only allowed to worship God in the way directed by the dictator. Hitler caused more than 100 prominent Germans to be shot simply because he suspected their loyalty to him.

In Communist Russia over 300 of the best men are being shot annually. Hundreds of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant ministers are in concentration camps and jails in Germany and Russia, dying from starvation and abuse.

"Compare these vicious acts with the liberty and happiness of citizens of the United States of America—guaranteed them by the Constitution. And thank God for your good fortune!"

($10 PRIZE)

AND now come the two other contributions. First there's one from MRS. TED SCOTT of ALICE, TEXAS a young American wife who cries:

"If the people of America would do their own thinking, there would be a great many changes in politics. Too long have we left the thinking up to our political leaders.

"WHO OR WHAT CAN SAVE OUR NATION? YOU AND I, AS PLAIN EVERYDAY FOLK, CAN SAVE OUR NATION—AND WE ALONE! IF WE CONTINUE TO WAIT FOR SOME GREAT LEADER TO LIFT US TO A HIGHER AND BETTER LIFE—WE ARE LOST."

($10 PRIZE WINNER)

THERE'S the spirit that made America out of a savage wilderness!

And, after her, and equally brave, comes this suggestion from SHIRLEY HELENE BECKER OF NEW YORK CITY:

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Why not require a course in politics in all high schools? Then the future citizens and leaders would have a real understanding of 'what it's all about.'

"I say—TEACH POLITICS IN HIGH SCHOOLS IF YOU WANT NATIONAL UNDERSTANDING OF POLITICS."

($5 PRIZE)

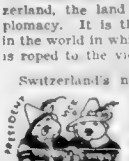
1—The writer of a letter to receive a prize must be [illegible] two of $10 each and one of $5—must be under twenty years of age.
2—The letter must be upon some subject of importance to American Youth.
3—The letter must not exceed 300 words.
4—The writer must give his or her age and full name and address, and the name of each writer awarded a [illegible] will be published.
5—To be eligible for one of the prizes awarded each Monday a letter must bear postmark not later than noon of the preceding Saturday.
6—Miss Elsie Robinson is to be sole judge of the merits of letters submitted in the contest.

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

ONCE again we admire the unconditional neutrality of Switzerland, the land of yodeling diplomacy. It is the only republic in the world in which the president is roped to the vice-president.

Switzerland's neutrality is due to its political silhouette. In that land you get more advantage out of a ladder than you do out of a galleon.



With the League of Nations meeting spasmodically in Berne and other cautious suburbs, we may well call Switzerland the Hanging Gardens of Babble On.

The League never meets anywhere but in a spot where there is more camphor than moths. It has discovered that peace on earth is feasible if the earth is shaped like Switzerland.

Add cowbells, the loud face-slapping of the Swiss national dance, the clacking of hobnailed shoes on cobblestones and the rattling of excuses, the barking of St. Bernards rescuing delayed drunkards and you have the Switzer brand of peace that passeth all understanding. Consult your nearest travel agent.

It's a peace that scares milk and cauliflowers the cats. But it has the corroboration of time and the endorsement of man. It may not be perfect but it's the closest they can get. Therefore, Switzerland will continue to be the battle ground for the peace agents of Europe. Somebody might as well get a real benefit of it.

Switzerland is fortunate that its terrain overflowed its borders. Nobody can fight over ground that they can't fight on.

In conclusion, we congratulate the [illegible] on its tough [illegible] in the corrugated hills and advise it never to issue a bond for the purpose of ironing out its mountains. If you want to get away from trouble follow a goat.

Power to Play Wilkes In 'Gone With Wind'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service
(Copyright)

HOLLYWOOD, June 27—I should say from Margaret Mitchell's description of Ashley Wilkes in "Gone With the Wind" that Tyrone Power in no way resembles him.

Ty is spirited, dashing and full of go. Ashley was dreamy, a little weak and [illegible] a beau. Yet I know that up to now Ty is the only one being seriously considered by David Selznick for that role. He played opposite Norma Shearer (Scarlett) in "Marie Antoinette" and she [illegible] Louella Parsons everyone else in Hollywood has high regard for his acting ability. So perhaps he can submerge his own personality and act the part of Ashley.

Of course there is the little matter of Darryl Zanuck to be considered. Will he lend Tyrone, who as we said yesterday, is also being sought for "Wuthering Heights"?

Hal Wallis first job when he retires from desk Monday morning after a holiday in Honolulu will be to prepare "Dust Be Thy Desire." Out of the 25 plays he took along to read this was chosen and sent back for immediate scripting.

Hal Roach has planked down some really cash for "Zenobia," undoubtedly a book of some years ago, by H. C. Brunner.

Hedy Lamarr completely captivated everyone who saw her in Los Angeles, at her American debut. Statistics have proved that less than one out of every 20 of those continental glamour girls have been worth the trouble and expense of bringing them over here.

But Miss Lamarr is the exception. What a beautiful girl she is, probably the most breathtaking close-up subject since La Dietrich. In addition, Hedy has warmth and vitality.

Hollywood critics, including myself, censured MGM when they signed the star of the sensational "Ecstacy." But, in spite of the obstacles Hedy has studied hard and learned to speak English flawlessly. So in all fairness, we must take off our hats to her.

A LINE OR TWO: Milton Berle is expecting to be a brand new [illegible] any day now and when somebody asked him if he wanted to make a little bet on a girl Milton cracked: "I want a little Berle" . . . Pan Berman is busier than the proverbial one armed paper hanger trying to borrow Melvyn Douglas for the part with Barbara Stanwyck in "The Mad Miss Manton" and also [illegible] another deal with Paramount for Marion Davies to do "Ladies in Distress" by Fred Ballard and Adele Comandini. Darryl Zanuck is also interested in Davies in the picture, based on the career of Irene and Vernon Castle. . . . A wire from Ben Goetz, London exec, states that he has been requested to conduct the Gershwin Memorial Concert July 11 in New York and he feels this honor so deeply and sincerely he would welcome suggestions from the people who knew and loved George in Hollywood for the final Gershwin program. As the Charles Paddock-Gallant romance gets colder and colder Lee Gallant Put Down's friendship seems to be getting warmer and warmer. If Ellen Drew can get out of her Goldwyn contract and I just know of any more, as Sam is preparing she'll go to New York in a show this fall.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Peter Knowles [illegible] getting his pal Fred Evans to fly just a few more stag hops for the Warner forces. I bet he scrams if Allen Wurtzel and Leonard Green take a trip to the east shores. Irene [illegible] [illegible] Ben Lyon [illegible] [illegible] Jack Conrad was [illegible] [illegible] Jack Conrad [illegible] [illegible] Ben Lyon [illegible] [illegible] Ben Lyon [illegible] [illegible] Ben Lyon

Iced Coffee Welcome On Warm Days

FROM MARTHA LEE'S MONDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

Today, the 27th of June, introduces National Iced Coffee week. Fragrant, delightful iced coffee with plenty of ice and adorned, if you like with whipped cream, deserves a week of its own so that we can pay it the honor that is its due. On warm summer days tall glasses of iced coffee are most welcome. To make this summer [illegible] make your coffee [illegible] strength. Use one or two heaping tablespoonfuls to each [illegible] cup of water. The extra coffee makes up for ice dilution. [illegible] coffee fresh and hot quickly over lots of ice in [illegible]. Serve with sugar and [illegible] whipped cream as desired.

ICED COFFEE WITH COFFEE CUBES

Make coffee, using 2 level measuring tablespoonfuls of coffee to each measuring cup of water. Fill the ice trays in your automatic refrigerator with the coffee while it [illegible] Place the trays [illegible] coffee cubes [illegible] serving. Then fill the [illegible] with [illegible] made of [illegible] of the same strength as [illegible] used for the coffee ice cubes. Sugar and cream to taste. Make a little more coffee than you expect to serve at any given meal and use this to replenish your coffee ice cube supply.

COFFEE COOLER (FROSTED COFFEE)

Place a scoop of vanilla ice cream in each tall glass of iced coffee. Top with a spoonful of whipped cream if desired.

MOCHA FLOAT

Place two tablespoons whipped cream in bottom of glass. Add a scoop of chocolate ice cream. Fill with freshly made coffee which has been thoroughly chilled.

Celebrate National Iced Coffee Week with coolness and smartness and serve your iced coffee the modern way. Try a new "lid" for variety and enjoyment. You know the topping makes the difference in the flavor of your iced coffee. Fold into the whipped cream toppings for each glass of iced coffee the ingredients listed in each case:

Mocha Iced Coffee—Sweetened [illegible] syrup.

[illegible] Coffee—Nutmeg and cinnamon.

Iced Coffee Almond—A few drops of almond extract.

Mint Iced Coffee—A few drops of oil of spearmint.

[illegible] Iced Coffee—Grated orange rind.

COFFEE CAKELETS

½ cup butter	1 ½ cups flour
1 cup sugar	3 tsp. baking powder
3 egg yolks
6 squares unsweet ened chocolate	3 egg whites
	Apricot or orange marmalade

Mix ingredients in order given and bake in small tins in moderate oven (350 deg. F.). Remove from tins, cool, take out a small portion of cake from the center of each, and fill cavity with marmalade. Cover tops of cake with marshmallow frosting or your favorite frosting.

Eyes Need Rest Not Exercise

MANY women are interested in the subject of eye exercises. They have heard somewhere or other that exercising the eyes makes them brighter.

An authority on this subject says that the eyes are exercised continually. They look here and there, have plenty of movement. What most eyes need is rest. To have them sparkling, cover the lids with an ice-cold compress, lie down for half an hour, then [illegible]

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

New Water-Proof Makeup Boon for Vacation Days

If you want to look like this after as well as before a swim or a set of tennis, read about the exciting new product Arline Gould found in a Boston shop last week. Iva Steward, 20th Century Fox starlet who came from Livermore, Maine—one of our own girls—gives you something to strive for.

By ARLINE GOULD

The find of the season is here! I know it seems like something you dream about, but actually there is now a water-proof, natural makeup.

Now you can dive right into the briny without any fear of giving your new beau a shock when you emerge. For this amazing discovery really works. Neither cold water, perspiration or the sun's melting heat affects it, and it transforms you—really.

Forgive the raving, but as one who has watched some of the millionaires' daughters on the beach, and wondered how much it costs to get that glossy, permanently [illegible]-toned look, the appearance of a make-up within any gal's price range, with such magic properties, is worth a loud cheer.

This new product, or combination of products, is brand new, and is being sold exclusively by one Boston beauty salon. Right now a demonstrator is showing just what it does for you, giving it the works with dousings of water and all.

It is a cross between a cream and a pack, and comes in six shades, so you can be pink or dark tan. It covers blemishes and freckles, and does away with any need for powder. You just moisten a sponge, smooth it over your epidermis, and you have a satin, lasting surface.

With it comes a liquid rouge that blends perfectly into any shade, and is waterproof. So pure you can eat it, the ingredients sound like something out of Arabian nights—beet juice and sherry wine.

The cover-cream not only stays on and looks grand, but it also contains Vitamine E, which is the one which keeps our skins from drying out and getting wrinkled. Moreover, it has an astringent property that is beneficial and works while you strut around in it.

Best news of all is that you can take these two beauty miracles on your Glorious Fourth holiday and forget everything else, except a lipstick for heightening in the evening—and you can buy the small size of the cream, and the rouge, for a Lilie over a dozen and a quarter. Both of them! It's the bargain of the world.

Write to me at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, for the name of the shop which has this find exclusively. Or, if you like, phone me at Liberty 4000 between nine and five.

Imported English Flower Colognes

DEAR ARLINE: I am an eau de cologne addict, and at the same time I love the scent of lavender. Is there a hot-weather refreshant that is lavender scented? MARCIA, Beverly.

DEAR MARCIA: In one shop in Boston you can find some adorable round bottles of imported English cologne that look like old-fashioned crystal paperweights hand-painted with English flowers. Both the traditional eau de cologne and one with lavender overtones are featured. They're among the most refreshing things in the whole summer scene. Dainty gifts, too. The chubby bottles have a flattened surface on one side that allows a good finger hold. To learn more about them (they come in dollar and two dollar sizes) phone me at LIBerty 4000, or please write again, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. ARLINE GOULD.

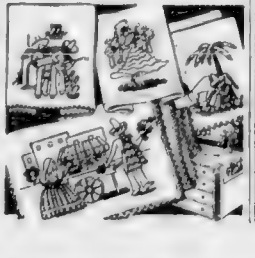
Motifs for Summer Linens

Brilliant color—gayety—romance [illegible] for the embroidering!

These Mexican motifs that will make your household linens so decorative are in the easiest stitches and are just bound to attract attention. They are the latest vogue.

Pattern 1749 contains a transfer pattern of 10 motifs, ranging from 4x5 inches to 6¼x9¾ inches; illustrations of stitches; materials required; color schemes.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to Boston Evening American Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.



Poems Loved By Everyone

"Life has loveliness to sell— . . . children's faces looking up Holding wonder like a cup."

Life is dull? Verses like this one by Sara Teasdale remind you life can be beautiful, stirring.

With poetry you can make each day an adventure. Let your motto be this verse:

"Don't tell me of tomorrow!
Give me the man who'll say,
That when a good deed's to be done,
"Let's do the deed today!"

Borrow courage from Kipling's immortal "If."

"If you can wait and not be tired by waiting . . .
Or being hated, don't give way to hating
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise."

In simple love there is power says this verse by James Thomson:

Give a man a girl he can love,
As I, O my Love, love thee:
And his hand is great with the pulse of Fate
At home or land or sea.

In this verse by Longfellow is the key to watching friends:

I breathed a song into the air
It fell to earth, I knew not where, . . . the song, from beginning to end
I found again in the heart of a friend.

Enjoy these and other loved poems complete—in our 40-page booklet, Poems the Whole World Loves. Such favorites as "The House by the Side of the Road," Poems by Tennyson, Poe, the Brownings, Whitman, many others.

Send 15c for your booklet Poems the Whole World Loves. In the envelope. Address Boston Evening American Information Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly, your name, address and the name of booklet.

Loses Job If He Quits Home

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been adopted but not legally. And I can't get along with my parents, now that I'm older. I have a job, but if I leave home, I will be unable to keep the job. I've been looking for different work in my spare time.

The girl I go with is a grand person, but if I should introduce her to my adoptive parents, they'd pick her to pieces. And I won't stand for that.

CONRAD S.

You'll probably not like my advice that you watch your step as I avoid a break with your [illegible] parents. They must have thought a good deal of you to have brought you up and given you a home. And if you break these bonds, it may be impossible to become reconciled later on.

As for picking the girl to pieces, is that likely if she's a credit to the girl?

Host Serves Wine

DEAR MRS. LEECKMAN:

1. If we have guests who arrive at eight o'clock and leave at nine, I look at what time should wine be served, and by whom, my wife or myself? (This is purely a hypothetical question, of course.)

2. The tray is brought into the room and passed around, isn't it, or should it be placed on the side table? Who lifts the glasses off?

MALE READER

Answer: If the guests were to arrive at eight o'clock and leave at nine the wine would probably be served fairly soon after their arrival, to give the deserved leisureliness. In other words, the minutes after it is served would be more important than the minutes before, so that haste would be avoided. I would suggest fifteen minutes after the arrival of the guests. We usually regard it as the host's province to prepare and serve the drinks that are not served at table. And, if there is no service at table, the host often assumes this duty then.

2. It would be more convenient, I think, for the wine to be poured into the glasses on a tray, at the last minute before the serving, all for the host to pass the tray. The guest lifts his or her glass from the tray.

Monday Marching Day for Miss Bosson

By BETTY ALDEN

MONDAY would seem to be marching day for Eleanor Bosson of Belmont . . . A week ago today she donned her cap and long black gown to join the procession of seniors which led to the platform of John M. Greene Hall, at Smith College, where she received her diploma from President Neilson . . .

Today, in a costume of ivory satin and old family lace, she is marching in a still more important and stately procession, to the altar of Christ Church, Cambridge. Waiting at the altar will be no college president with coveted rolls of vellum, but her bridegroom, Seth Cushing Lane, and his best man Samuel M. Lane, with the precious wedding ring . . .

Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, rector of Christ Church, will perform the ceremony before an altar banked with Easter lilies and lacy branches . . .

Over her ivory satin gown Eleanor is wearing her grandmother's wedding veil, held in place by a coronet of lace, and her bouquet combines orchids and lilies of the valley . . . Her sister Nancy, who has just completed her second year at Smith, is wearing coral chiffon with a picturesque Watteau bonnet tied with coral ribbons, for her maid of honor role. Her flowers combine bright blue larkspur, with coral gladioli and other colorful garden flowers.

Five of Eleanor's Smith classmates are marching in the bridal procession, together with a younger sister, Ruth Bosson, and Elizabeth Grant, of Louisville, Ky. The Smith girls are Charlotte Bolton, of Cambridge, Jean MacLachlin, of Pittsburgh, Marjorie Bensen, of New Canaan, Ct., Constance Rowe, of Manchester, N. H., and Clara Batchelow, of New Haven . . .

Following a honeymoon trip by motor through Maine and the Maritime Provinces, Eleanor and her bridegroom will live in Boston. The bride made her debut in the 1933-34 season and is a graduate of the Masters School, as well as Smith College. Mr. Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Lane of Milton, is a graduate of Moses Brown School . . .

• • •

The coming holiday week-end will mark the official opening of another busy season at Mt. Desert Island, the exclusive Maine resort where so many aristocratic Bostonians spend vacation months . . . The Northeast Harbor fleet, largest yachting organization north of Marblehead, which makes Northeast Harbor the yachting capital of Maine, is tuning up for its summer racing season, which offers so much fun and diversion to young er members of the social colony on the island . . .

The Bar Harbor Club, where the social colony gathers each morning for swimming and other outdoor recreations, opens for the season today . . . and the Long Pond Club, center of the dancing and social life of the resort, will open Thursday . . .

The shutters have already been removed from many cottages belonging to Bostonians and their owners are installed for the summer months . . . Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Eliot, of Cambridge, are at their cottage on Peabody drive . . . Dr. and Mrs. George C. Shattuck have arrived at their quaintly named cottage "The Shell Heap," and Dr. and Mrs. H. Sumner Richardson, of Newton Center, are already occupying their summer home on Beech Hill.

Other Hub socialites who have recently arrived to spend the season are Mrs. Hasket Derby, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Mrs. Norman McLeod, Miss Edith Cushing, who is at Wild Rose cottage, and Dr. Augustus Thorndike, who returned this week-end from California where he spent part of the late spring season.

Wedded

Anne Hutchins Now Mrs. F. M. Rivinus, Jr.

UNITED—Aristocratic families of Philadelphia and Boston society were united in the marriage of Anne Hutchins and Francis Markoe Rivinus, Jr., which was one of the outstanding weddings on Saturday's social calendar. This picture shows the bridal couple leaving St. Paul's Church, Dedham, immediately after the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Hutchins of Needham and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Markoe Rivinus of Radnor, Pa. The couple will make their home in Philadelphia.

Eileen Mullen Saturday Bride

Three clergymen officiated at the Saturday morning ceremony at which Eileen Marie Mullen of South Boston became the bride of Vincent Paul Conners.

The ceremony performed in Our Lady of Rosary church was followed by a reception and breakfast at the Copley Plaza.

Michael J. O'Brien gave his niece in marriage. Her gown of white mousseline de soie was worn with a veil of tulle and coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a prayerbook with orchids and lilies of the valley as markers.

Her sister Margaret was maid of honor, wore lavender mousseline with yellow streamers trimming her large picture hat.

Attired alike in costumes of yellow mousseline de soie were Frances A. Madden, Helen Murphy of Roslindale, Catherine P. McKeon and Mrs. Frank Finn of Dorchester.

Francis Conners of Dorchester, was his brother's best man. Ushers included Edmund Long of Swampscott, Donald Lyes of Portland, Me., Frank Finn of Dorchester and Barrett Conners of Everett.

Proparvulis Names New President

Attractive Helen Lafferty of Dorchester, who has taken a prominent part in Proparvulis Club activities, was named president of the group at its windup of the season a Tyrolean party, Saturday, at Vacation House, Sunset Point, Nantasket.

Helen, two seasons ago, served as vice-president of the club and throughout last season, she held the position of treasurer.

Orchids adorned the shoulder of her pretty printed chiffon frock as she heard that she was to assume leadership of the large charitable organization.

Capably assisting her as vice-presidents are Mary McInnis of Brookline and Edna Abbiatti of Quincy.

APPLAUDED FOR WORK

Edna came in for a round of applause on her excellent work in the recent drive for the Vacation House fund. She captained the Dorchester district and turned in the most money of any group. Her aqua and white silk sports frock was topped by a large white straw hat.

The picnic was an exceptionally gay one. Tables were scattered over the grounds, a German band played throughout supper time and even the waitresses, drawn from the club members, entertained with songs and dancing.

Marie Sullivan of Chelsea was named corresponding secretary, while Gertrude Driscoll of Dorchester, was chosen to assist her as recording secretary. The former was smartly attired in dubonnet sheer. The latter chose an eggshell printed linen, topped with a large natural hat.

The club's exchequer has been entrusted to Nora Mullarkey of Quincy and Helen Simonton of Brighton, both of whom chose natty white sports costumes for their induction into office.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Quite the most outstanding costume of the day was worn by the retiring president, Julia Clarke. Its royal blue linen skirt was topped by a well-fitting jacket of white with a row of red and white buttons down its front.

Others chosen to serve on the club's executive board are Mary Lynch, Mary Dunn, Hazel Donehy, Rita Carlin, Mildred Cotter, Mary Kelley, Eleanor Sheerin, Claire Tomasello, Marie Geary, Mary Dean and Loretta Daley.

Also wearing a corsage of talisman roses insignia of executive position were Dorothy Kindelon, Mary Fortune, Frances Glynn, Mary Welch, Florence McGrath, Norma Freeman, Helen G. McCarthy, Jane Holland and Katherine Foley.

Plan Kilmer Luncheon

Luncheon and bridge tomorrow at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, is the outstanding summer event of the Joyce Kilmer Literary Circle calendar.

Mrs. Joseph M. Kirby, of Belmont, has been named chairman of the committee by Mrs. Thomas Kavanaugh, president.

Serving on the committee who has arranged an active program of events are Mrs. T. Edward Sheehan, Mrs. William A. Fouby, of Belmont, Mrs. Stephen O'Neil, Mrs. Edward Downey, of Wollaston and Mrs. Walter Creed.

Doris, Mary Cahill Bermuda Bound

Bound for an exciting cruise to Bermuda, are Doris and Mary Cahill, of Malden, who sail from New York next Saturday aboard "The Queen of Bermuda." Both are prominent members of the Proparvulis Club.

Chosen

HEADS PROPARVULIS—Helen Lafferty, of Dorchester is new head of Proparvulis Club, having been named president at picnic given by the organization.

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

by Vera Brown

"Mike" Is Afraid To Wed Handsome

What Has Happened;

A romance of the big league baseball world seems blooming when Handsome Larry Regan, spectacular and erratic young pitcher, decides to marry the lashing little redhead, "Mike" Shannon, hero-worshiping manicure counter girl at the Eureka Hotel.

She is the main support of her family and by no means sure that she wants to wed such a wild oats sower as "Handsome."

But she is ready to overlook that most promising of southpaws' clay-footed habits and consents to take him to her humble home when he meets the rules.

HANDSOME CARRIES "MIKE" up the flight of stairs to the family's shabby apartment. "Stop kicking, Skipper!" he soothed as she voiced her embarrassment.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER SEVEN

Jimmie started a long cross-examination, questions of every kind. Handsome settled himself beside the boy and his huge frame seemed to fill the little bedroom. Mrs. Shannon slipped out of the room after a while. And finally Mike left the two together.

"I like Mike. She's swell, Jimmie said when his sister had gone.

"So do I. I think she's swell too."

"I'm glad.

"Are you?"

"Sure! Most of the guys she knows are sissy guys.

"Then I'm not a sissy."

"Gee no. You can fight!" Jimmie grinned.

They got along famously. Mike came back and then Handsome told Jimmie he was leaving town with the team soon.

"We'll be on the road for six weeks this time. I'm going to miss Mike . . . and you Jimmie."

"It must be fun traveling in a parade."

"A fellow gets kinda tired of it." Handsome smiled at Mike as he thought of the hundred-page games.

Now Jimmie I've got to take Mike out for a little while. She's my girl, you know and I've got to buy her some presents. As I'm most broke for Handsome added. "We—she—and he got a—some. What kind of—"

"Sweaters! Jimmie."

So Handsome and Mike found themselves on a Dorchester street.

"I—I don't know. This is a big—"

"It's pretty fancy."

"That's what—Jimmie. You know."

They walked on through the—Jimmie's—A little—pipe.

Vets Ask Preference

NORTHAMPTON, June 27 A campaign to uphold the present veterans' preference act was launched today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in accordance with a vote passed in the closing mnutes of their 18th annual convention here.

Newly-elected officers were empowered to appoint a three man commission to strive for strict enforcement of present civil service laws, inasmuch as they apply to veterans, and also battle for no let-down in the present law.

Harry O. Holmes of Rockland was unopposed for the office of department commander.

Those elected included Wilfred Jacobs of Boston, senior vice-commander; Edward A. O'Brien of Worcester, junior vice-commander; Harry V. O'Day of Hudson, judge advocate; Dr. James A. Keenan of Roxbury, surgeon-general; the Rev. Wallace E. Hayes of Rutland Heights, re-elected chaplain for the 16th time.

At the same time, leading clergymen and professors today ridiculed the convention charges of Senator Thomas M. Burke that they are Communists. Their number included Professor David Vaughan of the Boston University School of Theology, the Rev. Robert M. Gray of Woburn, and the Rev. George L. Paine of Cambridge.

All three declared that Senator Burke should know that the gospel of Christ which they taught daily was foreign to anything that smacked of atheist Russia.

Rain Routs 37 in House

An eight day heat wave was at an end today after a deluging rainstorm and northwest breeze dropped the mercury 30 degrees within the last 24 hours.

The all day rain brought severe damage in Revere where 37 persons were ordered from a Highland street apartment.

Clogged rainspouts forced the rain through ceilings which sagged under the load and, according to firemen, were in danger of collapsing.

Occasional rain and cool weather were scheduled to continue today.

BUS DRIVER HELD UP

METHUEN, June 27—Two tall, dark gunmen were sought today for the robbery of Duncan Carnie, Eastern Massachusetts bus driver, from whom $25 was taken at the end of the line at Merrimack street.

Haney Sees Bear Market As Over

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, June 27 [illegible] on both sides the averages of [illegible] stocks on the New York Exchange suddenly turned and moved [illegible] the summer and [illegible] of the trading and the decisive penetration of most of the [illegible] we may confidently state that the bear market is over. A few irregularity and minor [illegible] in the market will probably [illegible] and eventually [illegible] the past movement in 1937.

[illegible] to look upon present [illegible] of a time when men like Roosevelt and the [illegible] radicals with whom he surrounds himself are trying to wreck the country over. For what it may be worth, however, the present [illegible] does not suggest any large [illegible] ahead in the near future.

Probably the present move taken in connection with the preceding conditions is sufficiently like the turn which came in July 1932 to warrant the conclusion that a real bull market is in the making. Optimism on this score however must be limited by the thought that political experiments may at any time create a setback.

March 14 was the case in June-July 1932 the [illegible] of May-June this year has been dead and dull with very little volume and [illegible]

Austen Lake Says

Boston Bone Specialist Questions Max's Injury

JUST AS THE LOUIS-SCHMELING FIGHT is ready for its winding sheet and final interment in the tomb, up pops a better-known Boston bone specialist and jabs a needleful of horse hop in the cold corpse. The physician, whose office is in the professionally sacrosanct purlieus of Commonwealth avenue, and whose name would be readily recognized, writes:

AUSTEN LAKE

"The alleged injury to Schmeling's back could not possibly have paralyzed him at any time. Anatomically it would be impossible.

"Fractures to the transverse processes seldom occur from direct blows, but rather from strain from the muscle-groups attached to the spine. Hence a blow to Schmeling's flank, or on the outer aspect of his back, might do it. But a blow directly over his spine very likely would not. Such injuries usually occur from simple causes, such as extreme strain with muscles tensed. It could happen from merely stepping unexpectedly off the curb.

"The great muscles of the back hold the processes in position and are stronger than the process itself. Hence injury occurs more often from sudden distortions or shifts of the muscle mass, carrying with it the spinal process. When the muscular action exceeds the strength of the bone anchorage, a fracture sometimes results.

"During healing the disengaged process does not reattach itself to the vertebrae. Therefore no doctor can tell from X-ray examination whether the injury is old or new. Indeed, this has been a major problem in insurance cases for years. It would be almost impossible to say from Roentgen plates whether Schmeling's injury was the immediate result of Louis' blows or whether it was merely a reoccurance of an earlier mishap. It could easily have occured from an awkward fall.

Not serious in themselves, process fractures are common to all athletes in the more violent sports. Eddie Shore, the hockey player, probably has several. But if it be a question of choosing the greater pain and the more dangerous consequences, I would prefer the one received by Schmeling to a severe blow on the jaw of the nerve centers of the head. Any doctor will concur with the above." (Signed.)

PERSONALLY I SUSPECT THAT SCHMELLING'S greater fatigue was to the legend of his pride and the knowledge that he had been tumbled from a Nazi pedestal. For Adolph Hitler had remarked in a recent speech, "The word, defeat, must be purged from the German vocabulary. There is no room for it in the German mind." So when Max dusted the floor with his posteriors last Wednesday he needed a four-letter word for defeat. That word is "foul." So with an amazing vitality as he lay in his locker room after the fight he described the sensations of being hit a low blow at his tackle-no. And his intimate friend and trainer Max Machon despite later denials caught up the refrain of "foul" with a little bevy of German newsmen carrying the chorus in the ear of everybody admitted to the enclosure.

Movies of the fight, now showing in Boston, reveal that Max caught a stiff kidney punch about one minute after hostilities began. But at that instant he was already in a mental gloaming from repetitious busts about the skull. His number was up even then. Yet when, in the light of later reasoning, he discarded "foul" as illogical and substituted "paralysis" from an opening punch, he explained his disintegration to the immediate torpor which mounted from kidney to brain and hence through all his fibres.

Either of his two words may satisfy the Germans now. But defeated as the word for Schmeling here. In fact Hitler's pass papers show Max setting a quick comfortable to the hospital room a strange freedom for one suffering from spinal fractures, bruised lungs and dislocated rib or two. Fascist history has been loaded with medieval hoax. Primo Carnera insisted that his defeat by Max Baer traced to a trick. Late in his meteoric career Jimmy Braddock exhibited X-ray plates of crushed knuckles to furnish defending his title against Schmeling in 1937. Even Gaston Means, the betrayal Fatty Lowry would give an affidavit in explanation of plots and affidavits to prove that he had been bribed by the ghost of Lon Stanley. Each claimed a victim. Each escaped but Louis. So what?

THE NEED FOR AN ALIBI IS A FIGHTER'S first thought as the mist clears. And Schmeling had greater need for a better alibi than any other beaten fighter in modern ring history. Herr Goebels has to tell the home peoples through his subsidized press how come Nordic supremacy got biffed on the button by a member of what he once called "America's black auxiliaries" during the last Olympic games.

And now what? Why the world has watched or listened to the last major heavyweight fight for many years to come. A new White Hope era has dawned and somewhere in the lowlands there is a spaulding lad possibly on salutary pants who will grow up to lick Louis as Jeff his vanished title. It may take years, but it is inevitable. Meanwhile the poet with the rubber legs the patriotic tongue and the schoolgirl heart wants to shake the pulpit sugar bush apron addict Max Adelbert Baer. That gives you an idea of the condition the heavyweight fight hatched is in.

Cuccinello, Turner Make N. L. Squad

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Cincinnati fans who turn out for the interleague All-Star game at Redland Field a week from Wednesday will see a lot of familiar figures in new roles. For the Reds are leading the National League's youth movement in an effort to end the rival circuit's string of victories in the mid-summer classic.

Five Cincinnati players were chosen by veteran Manager Bill Terry of the National League pennants for places on the squad of 23 men announced today. He added to Pat Terry who will manage the team picked Wednesday, Cincinnati pennants, as one of his coaches.

In contrast to the American League squad [illegible] the National [illegible] who have won four of the five pennants since 1933, the National Leaguers [illegible] new comers. Only 8 of the 23 players have appeared in all star contests and only two Cubs' hardy perennial Catcher Lee Hartnett has been named them.

Charlie Gehringer

The ten veterans include Tony Cuccinello of the Boston Bees who played in the 1933 all star game and hasn't been back since. Gus Hubbell, who also played in that contest and has been named only the 1937 squad and Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, Mel Ott of the Giants and Pat Herman of the Cubs who have been regulars every year.

The all-star squads

BEST BET—FAST DANCER, SIXTH RACE

The greatest futurity ever staged at Wonderland Park takes place tonight when the sensational Arthur Duffey, the fast flying Boston Harbor, which has won four in a row, Wilful and other top greyhounds meet.

I am going against form here and naming Wilful. If this miss breaks well, she is a cinch to catch Boston Harbor which undoubtedly will be on top. Arthur Duffey has drawn a middle box for the first time, and over this short futurity distance may not be able to make up enough ground.

For a best bet, Fast Dancer, which is moving down quite a bit, looks like a standout in the sixth.

CYCLE RACER DIED

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 27 (AP)—The first major accident ever to occur at the North Haven Speedway during seven years of motorcycle racing resulted in the death of Joe Tirelli, of New Britain.

Simmons Clouting Ball Hard

By Associated Press

It's a shame. All those glowing obituaries about the Pounding Pole will have to be torn up. All those pretty words about his two straight American League batting championships; about the way he led the Athletics to three pennants and two world titles; about his records sprinkled all through the book—all of the stuff that's been written about the "washed up" old guy will have to go back on the dead hook.

Because the Pounding Pole (Al Simmons is the name) isn't any more washed up than the week's laundry at 6 a. m. Monday morning. That $15,000 price tag "Cold, Fox, Clark Griffith paid the Tigers for him looks like a bargain at the moment, and that .279 batting average he turned in last year must have been a mistake.

If there was any one outstanding development of the just-concluded swing through the circuit of the American League's eastern [illegible] and the National League's west—outside of the dizzy way the whole thing wound up—Simmons return to form is it.

In the 11 games he played during the senators' trek through the [illegible] Al [illegible] A [illegible] a mere [illegible] drove in 24 runs and [illegible] six homers, four of them in the last six games and two of them in yesterday's 5-3 [illegible] as the Senators socked the St. Louis Browns 9-1 and 7-2.

The second came with the bases loaded and gave him 10 for the year. Now that's not an awful lot, but if he keeps it up it would figure close to 30 for the season.

X-Niners See Sox Play

The big baseball day of the year for Boston American X-Niners comes on Tuesday when they will be admitted free to the game between Washington and the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

All that X-Niners need to do to get into Fenway Park free on Tuesday is to show their X-NINE badge and card.

Admission will be through the Van Ness street gate and they will be open for X-NINERS at 1 o'clock.

Sox Held Over In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., June 27—Instead of being in Boston enjoying an afternoon off, the Red Sox will be out on League Park here battling the Indians this p. m., thanks to the sophomore masterminding of Ty Sapicka, who, when he left in the eighth inning of the Indians' 5-3 victory last night, had established himself as a big-league manager of the Cleveland club.

Every loyal Cleveland fan hopes the ordeal is washed out, leaving Sapicka with nothing but bitter memories of the [illegible] Cash he lost by betting money on [illegible] A. J. popped up over the shortstop in the [illegible] runners were ready to turn on in time to watch their pace-setting heroes battle the Connecticut [illegible] today.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] but Sapicka would not have it.

Ty Sapicka

Two sunday games, [illegible] he thought, return a few dollars more than would single games separately and Sunday [illegible] after a 45-minute shower started at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the game sign was hung out to blister in the sun the rest of the day.

Then came an all-day Sabbath storm.

That was bad enough, but leave it to Cy to make things worse.

He suddenly discovered that the two clubs were slated for an off day Monday, behind another Sunday date here and that some convention or other was starting in town.

So the Sox, despite the fact that they'd be back here for six days later in the season, had to stay and their pocketbooks [illegible] that made of this series.

Should there be a game today, Mose Grove, seeking his 15th win, a second time, will start for the Sox and draw Lyn Lary, Bill Dietrich as an opponent.

It will be the first meeting ever of the Sox and [illegible] pitcher and [illegible] the Indians' chief mound [illegible]

Keaney's Best Goes in 8th

By MATTHEW KEANEY

BEST BET—CHANCELLOR CARESS—EIGHTH RACE.

TAUNTON, June 27—The first Gold Collar championship elimination race is slated for tonight with Mutton Broth, Court Critic, Pass Down, Cauld Kail, Village Lass, Country Doctor, Cavalcade, Caress and Tormented making the going.

It would seem as if the first [illegible] named would be the qualifiers for the championship itself which is to be decided on Thursday night.

For my safest wagering hazard I am taking Chancellor Caress in the eighth race. This one should improve off the bang-up race it [illegible] last out when a second was [illegible] its [illegible]

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

FIRST HALF DAILY DOUBLE

IRRIGATION, ANDORA, VERNON GUEST

PP	Dog	Wt	Owner	Odds
1	Obdurate	66	Burke Spencer	3 1
2	[illegible]	61	Homer Rogers	6 1
3	Vernon Glee	66½	Fred Street	5 1
4	Magic Street	65	G. Tippold, Jr.	6 1
5	Robert Ripley	66	W. Lee Bryant	6 1
6	Irrigation	61	O. R. Wahlstaf	6 1
7	Peppy Lass	66½	John Highhouse	6 1
8	Take Money	69	Ben Neal, Jr.	6 1

IRRIGATION has not headed since its last and off this I take it to win with ANDORA the chief menace. VERNON GUEST could upset

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

SECOND HALF DAILY DOUBLE

BOX OFFICE, DODGE TRUCK, HELEN O

1	Box Office	61	M. C. Sparks	3 1
6	Dodge Truck	66	O. Dahlberg	6 1
3	Helen O.	61	Cedar Pt. Ken.	6 1
5	Fawn Rhea	66½	Jim Sullivan	6 1
2	Silent Stranger	66	G. Tippold, Jr.	6 1
4	Fortune	58	W. J. Garvey	6 1
8	Jere Landon	66	C. H. Rogers	6 1
7	Mac	66½	Robert Bryant	6 1

BOX OFFICE, a fast breaker and pert, is speed and should score over DODGE TRUCK. HELEN O can take the show.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE

ROSANNA, EDGE UP, WALLY S

2	[illegible]	61	Fred Palermo	5 1
3	Break Up	69	P. L. Brants	6 1
4	Wally S.	69	Homer Rogers	5 1
1	Mike Slate	67½	Paul Bosco	6 1
7	Marcy	72	Tom Baird	6 1
8	Mary Marden	68	Ben Neal, Jr.	6 1
5	Dot Sahara	61	W. R. Hall	6 1
6	Mental Test	71	O. Dahlberg	6 1

ROSANNA should outbreak to field and round the first bend on the head end. If this happens, Big Shatie Bar the Door." Should BREAK UP avoid serious bother, the race will be keen. Normal scheduling make WALLY S. seem a money pearl belly.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

EL MAR, SCOTCH BONNET, RE SISTANCE

2	El Mar	68	Cedar Pt. Ken.	3 1
1	Scotch Bonnet	66½	W. J. Garvey	6 1
3	Resistance	74	O. Dahlberg	6 1
5	Speedy Traffic	66	Frank Lane	6 1
7	Plain Chord	65	Don Bennett	6 1
4	Sally Moran	61	R. Stephenson	6 1
6	Mopope	61	Fred Street	6 1
8	Roman Riddle	61	M. T. Dubiel	6 1

EL-MAR would seem the logical choice from this field of paper with SCOTCH BONNET and RESISTANCE the ones to beat.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE

GOOD PUNCH, SINGING BREEZE, EAST HALAW

3	Good Punch	68	Kirkpatrick	3 1
1	Singing Breeze	68	Fred Palermo	6 1
5	Easy Again	65	P. L. Brants	6 1
7	Wheeler	68½	J. Rhude	6 1
6	Look Did It	64	John Williams	6 1
2	Speedie	61	Robert Bryant	6 1
8	Kilcorney W.	61	M. J. Garvo	6 1

Sparky Speaking

6 Taverna Hostess, Jr. O. R. Wahlstaf 5 1
GOOD PUNCH retires the race more though SINGING BREEZE, if it breaks alertly, could take all of it. Only the black-headed heiress ran to relegate the good time starter EASY but 4A. to the show hole.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

LATTO MARE, JIM GLENN, VITEK

4	Latto Mare	66	Burke Spencer	3 1
6	Jim Glenn	61	J. Highhouse	6 1
1	Vitek	61	Lee [illegible]	5 1
5	Bright Leader	61	O. R. Wahlstaf	5 1
3	Rusty Luther	73	O. and R. Kennel	6 1
2	Winter Twister	66	W. J. Garvey	6 1
7	Whoa Mac	61	W. R. Hall	6 1
8	Dark Prophet	66	Pat Conway	6 1

LATTO MARE drops a trifle and should be top mong of the distance. JIM GLENN can make it close. VITEK for what is left.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

APPOLLO, MARGO CLARK, MURRI BY

1	Appollo	68	O. R. Wahlstaf	3 1
4	Margo Clark	57	M. T. Dubiel	6 1
6	Murri By	59	Fred Street	5 1
7	Trusty Neil	66	Frank Lane	6 1
3	Just Chimin	61½	W. Lee Bryant	6 1
5	Whoa Walt	66	Tom Baird	6 1
2	Big Happy	65	J. J. Arute	6 1
8	Rich Moon	66	G. Tippold, Jr.	6 1

APPOLLO should outbreak this company and prove a handy winner, with MARGO CLARK the chief menace. MURRI BY can save the show.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

CHANCELLOR CARESS, STAGE LOVE, PARADE

1	Chancellor Caress	70	C. A. Rhodes	3 1
5	Stage Love	68	G. Tippold, Jr.	6 1
4	Parade	68	J. Highhouse	6 1
3	Jonahugo	68	Ben Bennett	6 1
8	Major Boy	68	J. Kirkpatrick	6 1
6	Gay Mac	68	Paul Pooler	6 1
2	Traffic Man	56	Frank Lane	6 1
7	Bootmaker	68	W. J. Garvo	10 1

CHANCELLOR CARESS rates the class here through the post position, with STAGE LOVE the one to beat. PARADE, a sluggish breaker, should barge into the money.

NINTH RACE—FUTURITY

FIRST GOLD COLLAR ELIMINATION

MUTTON BROTH, COURT CRITIC, PASS DOWN

8	Mutton Broth	66	J. L. Arute	6 2
3	Court Critic	66	Art Wilson	5 1
2	Pass Down	61	F. I. Brants	6 1
7	Cauld Kail	66	W. R. Wahlstaf	5 1
1	Village Lass	56	Ben Bennett	6 1
4	Country Doctor	66	W. R. Hall	6 1
5	Cavalcade	61	C. A. Rhodes	6 1
6	Tormented	61	J. Kirkpatrick	6 1

This elimination provides a severe test, but if MUTTON BROTH breaks to his usual fashion, it should head the pack. COURT CRITIC will be hard to beat and, off his last, PASS DOWN should be in the money. CAULD KAIL should be the fourth qualifier.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

GUIDING HAND, MAJOR JAMESTOWN, MISS SIMPSON

5	Guiding Hand	65	Fred Palermo	5 1
1	Maj. Jamestown	65	O. R. Wahlstaf	4 1
2	Miss Simpson	57	J. J. Arute	6 1
3	Muddler	61	R. Stephenson	5 1
4	Mister S. N. T.	70	Cedar Pt. Ken.	6 1
6	Seaweed Lady	57	O. and R. Kennel	6 1
7	Corporal Caress	61	C. A. Rhodes	6 1
8	Glenmoore Girl	61	M. C. Sparks	6 1

If GUIDING HAND goes about his business it should score handily. Any slip up, however, would give MAJOR JAMESTOWN an edge. MISS SIMPSON should be in the money.

How Blackburn Trains Louis | Max Baer Here to Referee

By JACK CONWAY

JACK BLACKBURN told me the story of how he gives Joe Louis a new boxing thought just before a bout.

Mr. Boston

"I have found I do not get the best results with Joe," said Blackburn, "when I start stressing a point in the early stages of a training period. He forgets the importance of the lesson by the time the match is held.

"Training Louis for Schmeling the most important defense to build up was one that would stop the German's right hand attack. Louis had a habit of walking to his own left which made it easy to hit him with a right hand.

"Even as late as the Sunday before the bout the champion was walking to his own left which would have made him a target for Schmeling's right hand. I announced there would not be any training Monday. I wanted to get Louis alone for the final drill.

"I told Joe to get into the ring. Then I instructed him to keep circling to his own right, and in this way avoid the Schmeling right. When Schmeling threw his one right-hand punch Louis was going away from it and as a result the smash was only a glancing one. If Joe had been moving as he had in his workouts on Sunday, the punch would have landed flush on his jaw, and he would have had a much more difficult fight than he had."

Now that Louis has been schooled in the fundamentals of boxing Blackburn intends to have the young champion remain a power fighter. Joe has an unlimited amount of physical energy, and the ability to punch with both hands.

Jack Dempsey made a good crack when he said the person who eventually beats Louis is now playing marbles. The former champion is convinced there isn't an active heavyweight today who has a chance to knock Louis from his fistic throne.

* * *

Schmeling Should Quit Ring

MAX SCHMELING should give up all ideas of ever fighting again. The advancing years have made inroads on him, and he is likely to suffer serious injury any time he is in there swinging punches against a youthful fighter.

Schmeling has been in the boxing game for 14 years. He has earned more than a million dollars during this time. He has invested his savings wisely, and can live in wealth and comfort with his wife in his native Germany. If Schmeling should continue boxing, it could well be charged he was money mad or that he had a false idea of his own athletic ability.

The boxing game is for raw youth fired with ambition.

I do not believe a young heavyweight ever had a greater incentive than Louis had when he fought Schmeling. He was anxious to prove he was a real champion, and at the same time knock out the man who had pounded him to the canvas with unmerciful right-hand punches two years ago. He succeeded in doing both.

* * *

Max Baer Comes to Boston

MAX BAER is in Boston to referee a Battle Royal at Charley Gordon's show at the Arena on Wednesday night. Gordon has offered Ted Germaine a bonus of $100 for every punch he lands on Baer.

Baer is matched to meet Joe Louis in a world's championship bout in September, and it will be interesting to see how he goes with Germaine, Pasha, Tony Papalino and Killer Murdock tossing punches at him.

I do not believe Baer will stand peacefully by and permit wrestlers to take pot shots at him. Max always could punch with his right duke, as Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera will admit.

Herman Conkling at Rockingham

LOU SMITH, who makes few racing mistakes, has signed Herman Conkling to act as steward at the Rockingham Park meeting that opens on July 11. Conkling will serve with Tom Thorp and Billy Almy, Jr.

Conkling has served at Delaware, Havre de Grace, Pimlico, Laurel, Saratoga, Suffolk Downs and other prominent tracks. He comes from the Maryland school of racing, and believes that the best way to make the turf sport flourish is by giving high-class racing.

Conkling takes the place at Rockingham left vacant by the death of Jim Munroe, the "Little Giant" of the racing game. Like everybody else interested in racing as a sport, I am glad to see Conkling return to New England.

The Rockingham meeting will bring new horses to New England. Lou Smith believes that fresh horses with excellent records are necessary to satisfy racegoers.

There was a time when persons who went to New England tracks would bet on anything that had four legs, but times have changed. The public now knows what racing is all about and is demanding value for its $2 investments on mutuel tickets.

Joe Walsh Makes Trip To Brooklyn

By WALTER KILEY

Hopeful that a change of scenery will affect a shift in fortune, Casey Stengel ushers his Bees this afternoon over to Brooklyn for a two game series with the Dodgers.

Ol' Case and the rest of the Swarm leave home a bit downcast over a very ordinary Beehive showing, wherein the record shows five wins, six loses, much in contrast to their previous home stay which sent them off to the wars joyous.

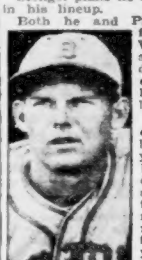
Jim Turner gets the first crack at the "Daffiness Boys" tomorrow afternoon, and Roomie Lou Fette has the dubious honor of hurling the Wednesday night "floodlight" contest.

The Stengelmen return home home Thursday night to play three doubleheaders in four days.

"Fish Day" brings the Phillies for a double bill. They stay over Saturday for a single game.

Then come the Giants for a Sunday doubleheader, following which the Bees travel to Philly for a Monday, July 4, doubleheader, opening games of a long road trip.

Stengel plans no radical changes in his lineup.



Max West

Both he and President Quinn feel that Max West, who got a triple and double Saturday, will find himself as a batter.

They are inclined to the belief that the youngster has been "bewildered" by the sudden transition from the minors to the majors, and that the 21-year-old Californian, who hit so well the past two years with the Missions and during the Florida spring training session, will eventually deliver.

With the departure of Pitcher Tommy Reis, sent to Milwaukee under option, room on the Bees' roster has been made for Joe "Tweet" Walsh, the Brookline boy who accompanied the team to Brooklyn.

Now that his knee is well healed, Walsh will get a quick chance to show his wares at short or third.

Sande Horses Withdrawn

Absence of The Chief, Stagehand Reduces Suffolk Field to Eight

By DAVE WILSON

Eight capable thoroughbreds now seem probable starters when the barrier is sprung in Wednesday's $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs, the race, which finally brings together War Admiral and Seabiscuit.

In a last minute surprise move, Earl Sande, Colonel H. Maxwell Howard's famous trainer, advises that The Chief, Howard's winner of the Brooklyn and Dwyer Handicaps, and judged the champion of the three-year-old division, will be listed among the missing.

So, too, will be Stagehand, The Chief's stablemate, which won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap and took runnerup honors in the Brooklyn feature.

This resolves Wednesday's classic down to a bitter duel between the Admiral and the 'Biscuit, as well as a personal feud between Trainers George Conway and Tom Smith.

In any event the largest crowd of the year is confidently expected at Suffolk, a gathering which is slated to make the Samuel G. Riddle champion a well backed favorite.

The field now shapes up with War Admiral and Seabiscuit, Mrs. E. Denemark's War Minstrel and Finance, John Hay Whitney's Flying Scot, Hal Price Wheatley's Menow, W. V. McGrath's Peligroso II, and R. F. Lister's Old Comrade, the latter a doubtful starter.

Riddle, War Admiral's owner, is coming over to see his equine charge perform, a departure from his usual custom.

He is anxious to see the Admiral continue unbroken his string of eleven victories, which during 1937 included the winning of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes.

Seabiscuit's recent workouts have bordered on the sensational and indicate that his recent leg ailment is healed fully.

Trainer Smith makes the unqualified statement that War Admiral will have to travel the first mile of the mile and 3-16ths journey in better than 1:36 to figure on beating the "Biscuit."

Both horses will carry 8lbs weight, a top of 130 pounds, four more than each was being asked to carry in the cancelled Belmont duel.

George Woolf will ride 'Biscuit, taking over for the injured Red Pollard.

Woolf rode Seabiscuit in the last Santa Anita Handicap in which the Howard-owned star was beaten a nose by Stagehand.

Alice Marble, Helen Jacobs Triumph

Rain Delays Wimbledon Matches

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27 (AP)—Alice Marble, second seeded player, from San Francisco, and Helen Jacobs, former champion, moved into the quarterfinal round of the all-England tennis championships today after the start of play had been delayed by rain.

Miss Marble took the measure of Ruth Mary Hardwick of England, 7—5, 6—4, and Miss Jacobs easily won from Peggy Scriven, also of England, 6—3, 6—0.

Miss Jacobs broke Miss Scriven's service twice in the first four games of the first set but was unable to hold her own. After the English girl had held her service in the fifth game, Helen paraded through the next four games, winning many points when Miss Scriven double faulted.

In the last game, Miss Jacobs came back from 15-40 as Peggy, terrified of double faulting, eased her service over the net. The English girl double faulted six times in the set.

The former champion practically abandoned her chop stroke in the second set and, chasing Miss Scriven to all corners, won as she pleased.

USED DROP SHOT

Miss Marble had trouble with her service at the start and trailed 1—4 before she got used to the sticky turf. Finally, the San Francisco star reverted to drop shots, aimed at Miss Hardwick's backhand and ran away to win the set by breaking the English girl's service in the eleventh and then holding her own in the twelfth.

Miss Marble again made a poor start in the second set. She lost the first two games, dropping the second on her own service by double faulting, but came back to take the next three. Miss Hardwick squared matters again by winning the sixth and then jumped to the front by holding her own service. After that, however, Miss Hardwick was unable to touch Alice's service or stop the American girl's rushes to the net.

Jacobs Collects $40,000 From Max

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Max Schmeling owes Mike Jacobs $40,000, covering advances over a two-year period, and will have to pay every dime of it before returning to Germany . . . Reason: Mike is among those who believe the German is through with any part of us from now on.

On the night Louis kayoed Schmeling, Negroes from in and around Orange, N. J., paraded in front of Tony Galento Orange drinkery, shouting: "Louis for President."

Low down on Dizzy Dean's condition due any day now and prescription is likely to be a year's rest.

Oscar Vitt deposeth and says: Johnny Allen is hard to handle, but harder to beat' . . . It was a surprise that Babe Phelps of the Dodgers made the National League all-star team . . . It was an even greater surprise that Hank Leiber was picked.

Spokane and other western points wish the New York State Athletic Commission would stop dilly-dallying about the light heavyweight situation . . . Last April it gave John Henry Lewis 15 days to accept a challenge from "Tiger Jack" Fox . . . To date Lewis hasn't been heard from and neither has the commission.

Mike Jacobs has Maxie Baer tied to a three-year contract, but they're betting along Broadway Mike doesn't get Baer into the same ring with Joe Louis this year after what Max (who ain't blind) saw the other night.

Baer begins a week's tour of New England today, refereeing boxing and wrestling matches . . . If Rudy York of the Tigers slams out a homer with the bags loaded again this season he will equal the major league record of four such wallops in one year, held jointly by Frank Schulte of the old Cubs, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig . . . Most popular visiting player to visit the Polo Grounds is Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs.

No wonder the umpires miss 'em . . . Harry Geisel, American League veteran, has it all figured out and estimates the bluecoats have close to 200 chances in each game in which to make mistakes . . . The Cardinals are said to be considering shifting their Piedmont League franchise from Asheville to Greensboro, N. C.

Quincy Battler In Dilboy Show

Heavyweight Mike Rosen of Quincy is the latest to join the entries for the Dilboy Post, V. F. W., amateur boxing tournament outdoors at Dilboy Field in Somerville, Wednesday night, as the simon pures renew battling under the floodlights.

Jim Prendible of Charlestown is another standout entry in the heavyweight division.

In the 126's are Frank Ree, Somerville; Nick Zullo, East Boston; John Linden, Fitchburg, Arnold Hazard, Providence.

In the 160's are Jim Savage, Providence; Allen Hancock, Cambridge; Abe Stackenburg, Randolph; Bob Morrey, Charlestown; Ed Remillard, Fitchburg, and Charlie Sherman, Fall River, Providence Golden Gloves champion.

Mike DiNapoli, Roslindale, and Frank Thibodeau, Fitchburg, top the 147-pound class contestants.

Boxing will be in the 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight divisions.

BOXER DIES

CINCINNATI, June 27 (AP) — Danny Davis, once a top-notcher among midwestern middleweight boxers, died today.

Zamperini Races Fenske Tonight

EVANSTON, Ill., June 27 (INS)—Rained out Saturday, America's ace track stars, representing the Midwest and the West Coast, will clash this evening in the first "twilight meet" in the history of big time track.

Topping the brilliant competition will be the mile run in which Lou Zamperini of U. S. C., and Chuck Fenske of the University of Wisconsin will renew their feud.

N. E. MEET POSTPONED

The New England track and field meet, originally scheduled for tonight, was postponed today until tomorrow night because of heavy rain.

Navy Pulls for Injured Coach

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27 (INS)—The picture of their painfully injured coach lying helpless on a hospital bed will be the inspiration to a saddened but grimly determined Naval Academy crew here this evening.

This new dash of drama was added to the great annual intercollegiate regatta when Charles "Buck" Walsh, coach of the Navy, suffered a severe back fracture in an accident over the weekend and was rushed to the Vassar Hospital.

There, the popular coach made this dramatic statement:

"Navy will win the big race. They'll fight harder than ever, now that this has happened. I won't be following them in the launch, but they'll know my heart is there."

A wave of sympathy swept to the orphan Midshipmen, and yet, cold hard logic still points to one of the invading boats from the far west as the most likely winner of the varsity event which will be rowed from Krum Elbow over the 4-mile course finishing a mile beyond the new passenger bridge in Poughkeepsie.

Buck Walsh

For the simple reason that their crews have for the past two years been victors in unprecedented grand slam sweeps of the river, the white tipped blades of University of Washington will be intently watched by all rival coxswains.

The full recovery of Don Hume in the stroke seat makes Washington followers hopeful of victory.

There is no better trained nor technically superior boat on the stream than the Huskies, but they lack the range and the sturdiness of California and most of their opponents.

Cornell has the biggest eight on the river, next to the California varsity, and the strapping farmers from upstate New York average nearly 6 feet, 4 inches in height in addition to their 178 pound weight average. Coach Sanford's men have been rowing well during their brief sojourn on the river, and they might be able to drive through to victory.

Syracuse is likewise lacking in poundage, although there are some who predict big things for the Ten Eyck varsity.

Wide interest is being shown in the efforts of Hume, White and Adam, the veterans of the Washington shell, to keep their records spotless. They have never been in a losing shell.

Knitters, Roslindale Near Flags

Tonight's games in the Boston Park League mark the seventh consecutive week of league competition with only five weeks left before the city championships get under way.

Massachusetts Knitting Mills, leading the East Division by four games, and Roslindale Town Club, topping the West Division over the St. Augustines by five games, look like the prospective champs of their divisions.

SAINTS WILL CLIMB

In the East Division following the "Knitters," McDonough Club of South Boston and Brighton Civics are tied with twenty-four points, with the Casey Club following with twenty-three.

St. Augustines, a sure bet for the annual championship classic, are trailing the "Townies" by five games, but probably will be much nearer the top before many more games are played.

The third position is held by the Agnew Club of Allston with the Hyde Park Tribunes closely behind.

On Thursday, June 30, the final day for the signing or transferring of players, probably will see many changes in the various lineups.

With six games listed this evening, the feature attraction should be the McDonough-Casey battle at Lee Playground, South Boston, with both clubs battling for second place honors.

Joe Zapustas, manager of the "Mace," probably will pitch for South Boston while Lefty Callahan will do the chucking for the "Caseys."

CIVICS VS. HOLY NAME

At the Fens Stadium the Wilson Club will attempt to retaliate for the two beatings the "Knitters" have already pinned on them, both at the Fens Stadium and Robert Playground, Dorchester.

Sammy White will be the pitcher for the Knitters" while Letourneau, who beat the St. Augustine's last week, will get the nod for the Wilsons.

At Dorchester Town Field St. Ambrose will entertain the Madden Club of Roxbury. Both clubs have been playing good ball, and it would not be surprising to see either club right up in the selected group when the playoffs roll around.

The final games of the night will bring together the Roslindale Town Club, which journeys to Agnew Club at Cleveland Circle, and the Brighton Civics-Holy Name clash at Fallon Field, Roslindale.

Babe at First For Dodgers

NEW YORK, June 27 (INS)—Babe Ruth is going to work for that $15,000 the Brooklyn Dodgers are paying him this season.

Ruth steps out of the coaching box and into the hitter's square for the first time tonight since 1933, he makes his debut as a first-baseman at Newark, N. J., tonight when the Dodgers hook up with the Bears in an exhibition game under the lights.

SPEEDSTER

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 27 (INS)—Injured in the first major accident in seven years of motorcycle racing at the North Haven speedway, Frank Joseph Torello, 24, of New Britain, was dead today as the result of a four-vehicle crash.

Goodman

Joins Benedicts

OMAHA, Neb., June 27 (AP)—National amateur golf champion Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and Miss Josephine Kersigo, his schoolday sweetheart, will be married here Wednesday, Goodman announcing plans for the wedding, said his brother, Anthony, will be best man, and Mrs. Helen Pazlicek, Chicago, sister of Miss Kersigo, will be matron of honor.

The wedding will be held at St. Stanislaus Church with "all our friends invited." Goodman said.

Delightful to See

Makes a pretty picture but gets no results. Here Bob Seeds, Giants' new sensational outfielder, takes a pretty cut at the ball, but misses for a strikeout. He later atoned for this when he crashed out a home run with a mate on base to aid Carl Hubbell win his 200th major league victory. The Giants beat the Cubs, 5 to 1.

Grand Circuit

Opens Tonight

TOLEDO, O., June 27 (AP)—Nearly 600 trotters and pacers stamped in damp stalls today, their handlers impatient for opening of the 1938 Grand Circuit at Fort Miami Park tonight.

A three-year-old trot for a $1000 purse will start five nights of racing for many of the principal rivals of Greyhound, E. J. Baker's world champion trotter, which has his first Grand Circuit test at Cleveland next week.

The immediate aims of the handlers, their eyes always on the rich Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y., are the Merchants and Manufacturers Stake here Wednesday, and the 29th Matron Stake Thursday.

Thirty horses are possible starters in the Matron, first dress rehearsal for the August 9 Hambletonian, and 17 trotters have been nominated for the Wednesday feature of the $23,600 Toledo card.

Flood N. Y. Tunnel to Quell Blaze

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—The north bore of the Manhattan-Queens $58,000,000 vehicular tunnel, 150 feet under East river, was flooded today and thus was conquered one of the strangest fires in the city's history.

The fire started last night and thousands of gallons of water was poured into the tunnel, which is still under construction, before a failure of machinery forced firemen to reduce the air pressure which is maintained during the construction period to prevent the walls from collapsing.

Lowering of the air pressure permitted water to flow in through the walls, but engineers reported little serious damage to the structure.

Heavy fumes and the 48-pounds-to-the-square-inch air pressure had impeded the work of battling the

Roosevelt Signs Wage-Hour Bill

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The wage-hour bill, providing for national regulation of minimum wages and maximum hours in interstate industry, became law today with President Roosevelt's signature.

The White House announced the President had signed this measure along with 130 other bills passed by the last Congress.

Roosevelt Welcomes Royal Pair

WILMINGTON, Del., June 27 (INS)—President Roosevelt stood on the rain-soaked banks of historic Christina River here today to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the landing of Swedish colonists on American soil with the declaration that the United States, Sweden and Finland would continue their friendly co-operation for years to come in the interest of world peace.

The President's address had been delayed almost two hours by a downpour of rain that made it doubtful until the last minute whether the celebration could be held.

While Mr. Roosevelt rested at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene duPont, waiting for the rain to subside so he could speak, two other important participants in the anniversary—Prince Bertil and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden were held storm-bound off Wilmington aboard the Swedish steamer Kungsholm.

The prince and princess were brought ashore in a small boat, however, when President Roosevelt's traditional "good weather luck" brought a clearing sky shortly after 11 a. m. (E.D.T.).

Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, Prince Bertil's father, was confined to his steamer stateroom by a kidney ailment. Doctors visited the member of Swedish royalty both last night and today.

Mr. Roosevelt left the celebration grounds immediately after he spoke, and boarded his special train for Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

A Hyde Park mother was bound, gagged and robbed of $130 today by two bandits, who forced their way into her home at gunpoint and left her tied up in the kitchen.

The victim, Mrs. Kuni Gaiser, 38, of Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park, was saved from probable death by suffocation by her eight-year-old son, Ernest, who, awakened by the scuffle, untied the towel and sheet the bandits had knotted round her head and face.

KNOWN TO POLICE

Special Officers Henry Williams and Frank Monahan, declared they knew, from descriptions furnished by Mrs. Gaiser, the identity of one of the bandits and promised his speedy arrest.

Five minutes after her husband had left for work, Mrs. Gaiser went to the front door in response to knocking and was faced by two masked and armed men.

"Keep quiet! Do what we tell you and you won't get hurt," they warned.

Mrs. Gaiser was forced back through the hall to her kitchen, at the rear of the apartment.

DEATH THREATS

There the bandits threatened to kill her unless she gave them her pocketbook. From the bag they snatched $130, earnings from the bakery business which her husband.

The gunmen ransacked the kitchen and bedroom, then used sheets from her bed to gag and tie her. The woman was thrown to the kitchen floor, and the pair vanished.

SCHMELING GAINS

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP) — Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, continued to show improvement today in Polyclinic Hospital, where he is recovering from a vertebrae fracture received in his fight with Joe Louis.
